GREAT BRITAIN.

The London Times says:

"The Emancipation Proclamation of President LINCOLN is a political concession to the Abolitionist wing of the Republican Party. When the Union existed, the Constitution gave no right either to the President alone or to the President and Congress combined to abolish Slavery. Emancipation was the thunderbolt placed in President Lincoln's hands to destroy the whole social organization of the South at a blow, is a thunderbolt which he (President LINCOLN) has assumed the right to launch, but he is without the power to enforce his decree. The North must conquer every square mile of the South before it can make the Proclamation of more effect than mere waste paper. Commercial advices from New-York show that there is a strong impression among the leading merchants that a termination of the war will ultimately occur from a financial crisis and confusion in the North."

The Iona, heavily laden with stores for the Confederates, was run into by another vessel and sunk in the Clyde.

Consols closed firm on the 7th instant, at 94¼ for money, and 94¼@94¾ for the November account.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

HALLTOWN, Four miles south of HARPER'S FERRY, Friday, Oct. 17—8 P. M., 1862.

Sitting around our camp-fires here at Halltown, curtained by the friendly Night, no one knows at what moment the crack of rifles along the picket line may summon our little force to their feet to meet an attack from the wily, lightning-like JACKSON, or the audacious, impetuous STUART. You doubtless know, by a swifter medium of intelligence than I have here at my command, that the reconnoitering force sent out yesterday, under command of Gen. HANCOCK, was today recalled by orders from headquarters. Every one supposed that it was the purpose of the military authorities to occupy Charlestown en permanence, preparatory to a general advance in conjunction with the forces at Sharpsburgh, on the rebels between here and Winchester. Gen. HANCOCK himself thought so, or, at least, knew nothing to the contrary this morning when I saw him. The order to fall back, which came at noon to-day, accordingly took everybody by surprise, and a degree of urgency was used in putting forward into position the various portions of the command that raised anticipations of something important in the wind. Arriving, on our return, at Halltown, half-way between Charlestown and Harper's Ferry (and it is a "town" merely by courtesy—there being exactly three houses in the place,) the order came to halt, and the force was immediately formed in line of battle on each side of the road—Gen. CALDWELL'S Brigade, supporting the battery of the Fourth Regulars, under command of Lieut. THOMAS, being deployed on the right of the road, and MEAGHER'S Brigade behind it, in the hollow, where the Martinsburgh and Winchester roads cross each other. Riding over to a piece of woods on the left of the road, I found it occupied by Gen. KIMBALL'S fine Brigade of Western troops, which had been sent out last evening to reinforce us, and had remained here during the night; while immediately in his rear, on a commanding eminence—the highest in the vicinity—was placed Capt. TOMPKINS' Battery of the First Rhode Island Artillery. I was much interested in the position thus taken up, and the anticipations it excited, as the place had been selected by Gen. MCCLELLAN himself, with whose suite I rode out to Charlestown yesterday, and who spent a couple of hours here at Halltown, surveying the ground and consulting with Gen. COUCH.

It was about three o'clock this afternoon when the four batteries were placed, the troops drawn up in line of battle, and double lines of pickets thrown out in all directions; and we have been waiting thus ever since in an expectant state. What is the object of the stand? One response has it that the rebels, after our departure from Charlestown, had returned in strong force, and are now advancing the whole of their right upon us. There is, however, another and more probable explanation. Heavy firing has this afternoon and evening been heard from the neighborhood of Shepherdstown and Leetown. It is known that Gen. HUMPHREY'S command, from PORTER'S Corps, was sent over the Potomac from Sharpsburgh yesterday, and the rapid canonading doubtless means an engagement between his forces and that of the rebels in the vicinities above indicated. If, therefore, he should be hardly pressed, he knows by courier to fall back in this direction, and we are here, a supporting or a coöperating force, as circumstances may determine. Such, according to the best lights obtainable, is the rationale of our present stand.

You have already had by telegraph the chief points in the reconnoissance made yesterday from Harper's Ferry to Charlestown, and the occupation of this town by our troops last night. I shall not repeat what you already know, but shall seek what other details may be of interest. I did not go out with the reconnoitering expedition itself, but joined the Staff of Gen. MCCLELLAN, which started from headquarters in Pleasant Valley about 11 A. M. yesterday. Proceeding up to the headquarters of Gen. COUCH, (commanding Gen. SUMNER'S corps,) on Bolivar Heights, a halt of an hour or so was made, and when we started anew, Gen. COUCH joined Gen. MCCLELLAN and the party. Proceeding at a rapid trot out to Halltown, the halt and survey of the ground here, which I have already mentioned, was made; and when, retaking the road, we advanced on to Charlestown, it was between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon when we reached that place. Here McCLELLAN and COUCH were joined by FITZ-JOHN PORTER, and the three Major-Generals held a consultation, which made us all forebode important events.

The artillery duel, which took place this side of Charlestown yesterday morning, was all over when we arrived. The rebel cavalry and artillery had been driven before our advancing army, helter-skelter through Charlestown, and we found our whole force drawn up on the southern outskirts of the town. Just as we arrived, a body of skirmishers was being thrown out over the clear fields of about a mile between the outskirts of the town and the woods beyond. The long line advances, twenty feet apart. Each man crouches, head bent warily forward and musket ready for its work. Half-way out, puffs of smoke go up from the edge of the woods beyond; there is the crack of a dozen carbines, and skirting the forest we see, faintly by the naked eye—clearly through the glass—the rebel cavalry pickets moving about. Our skirmishers advance, however; presently they reach the woods, where they are hidden from view—the rebel pickets retreating before them.

It would hardly be correct to say that the quietude of this little Virginia village, (which, like a widow in her weeds still amid the wrack of war retains much of its unusual prettiness,) was disturbed by the arrival of the Union force yesterday; for disquiet has too long been chronic here for such an event to raise more than a very slight ripple of excitement. "To-day, (Oct. 16,) two year," remarked an old fellow sitting on the inn-stoop last night, "to-day, two years, JOHN BROWN made his raid on Harper's Ferry, and there has been the devil to pay ever since." "When I see the Confederates going down the street," observed another, "I look to see the Yankees coming up, and when I see the Yankees going down I look to see the Confederates coming up, and if I don't see either I go about my business." Successive tides of Union and rebel invasion have, in fact, swept over the place, until the people have come to expect the one party or the other every day or so, and feel they have neither very much to hope nor very much to fear from either side. Thus situated, they have long ago become educated up to taking with philosophic calm whatever comes along. Confederate scrip, of Uncle Sam's green-backs—blue bellies or grey backs—they receive with equal equanimity. Tros Tyriusque nullo discrimine is their motto. Meanwhile, like the needy Knifegrinder, they have no story to tell but one of wounded hopes and blasted prospects. Each party preys upon them and takes their goods and possessions. Do you expect very much "Union sentiment" under such circumstances? I could not find it. The only approach to it that came under my observation was a longing for the good things they had before the war; and the conclave of old curmudgeons I have already mentioned, kept all evening singing a plaintive Jeremiad over those idyllic days when

"Whisky slings were plentiful and mint juleps did abound."

There is not a drop of liquor of any kind in the place. For the rest, there is a universal desire for peace—a deep disgust with the war, and an intense anxiety to have the thing "finished up somehow or other."

Nothing could be more complete than the sweep which the rebels, during their occupancy of this vicinity the past four or five weeks, have made of all the food and forage in the upper region of the Shenandoah Valley. The people of the town have the greatest difficulty in getting even the most ordinary supplies. At the hotel (the only one now open in the place) where I stayed last night, I paid one dollar for my supper, one dollar for my breakfast, and one dollar for hay for my beast. At breakfast and supper we had neither coffee, sugar nor butter—nothing but beef, bread and a vile substance called rye coffee, and some of us cursed that mal-adaptation of means and end that made a villainous decoction out of a good grain that might have made so excellent a distillation. Not a drop of spirits of any kind, as I have already said, was to be had in the place; not a cigar or a piece of tobacco of any kind. And the razzia has not been confined to things; the men, too, are all gone. All the male population that did not enlist have been swept into the rebel armies by the two conscriptions, and they are now applying the third, recently passed by the rebel Congress, and providing for the impressment of all between thirty-five and fifty-five. This impending measure excites the deepest disgust, and I believe the people would have been heartily glad of a permanent Union occupation that would have saved them from this fate. As it is, I did not see a middle-aged man in the place—nothing but boys and old men, and the effect of this hiatus in the male population is very odd indeed.

So much for the whites; now for the blacks. I have mentioned the observation of the old man, to the effect that our entry into Charlestown was on the second anniversary of JOHN BROWN'S raid. The old fellow did not formulate it in very scientific shape; but he had enough of the philosophy of history in him to see that the spark then enkindled and the present conflagration are united, somehow, by subtle bonds of necessary connection. I found a Rhode Island Battery, planted yesterday afternoon, on the very field where JOHN BROWN was hung, and near the locust tree where stood the illustrious gallows that liberated his antique soul to "march on" to immortality. I asked about the President's Emancipation Proclamation. It did not seem to excite the slightest interest. And, indeed, almost all the subjects whom it would effect are already gone—either North or South. I did not see half-a dozen male negroes in the whole town—females only. They, also, will probably be crowded southward as the day of liberation draws nigh.

I can sum up, in a few words, the amount of information as to the position, &c., of the rebel force, obtained through this reconnoissance. The force in the town was very small indeed—a mere picket guard, in fact—consisting of the Richmond Howitzers, (whose Captain, Capt. SMITH, was killed in the artillery engagement yesterday,) and the County (Jefferson) Battery—in all five pieces. Besides this there was a detachment of cavalry, (THROCKMORTON'S,) numbering in all three or four hundred. Yesterday afternoon, skirmishers were thrown out on the Berryville road, and they ascertained that at or near that place were the Third, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Virginia Cavalry, no infantry being found whatever. Last evening also, a squadron of our cavalry, under Capt. RENO went out within five miles of Bunker Hill—driving in the enemy's pickets the whole distance. It was, however, the universal testimony of those of the people in whom trust could be put, that the main body of the Confederate army is still at Bunker Hill, about midway between Martinsburgh and Winchester. Besides this, it was positively ascertained that the railroad between Winchester and Wadesville (nine miles) is all torn up, as is also the track from Charlestown to Winchester, and they were about coming up to carry on the work of destruction between Charlestown and Harper's Ferry when our force arrived. Now that we have gone, they will be able to continue the work at pleasure, and the train of cars which was run up from Harper's Ferry to Charlestown, yesterday evening, is probably the last that will make the transit for some time. This destruction of the railroads bear out the theory I have already presented, and to which I still hold: that there will be no battle north of Winchester, and that the rebel army will retreat down the valley whenever serious opposition is brought against them.

With present lights I hardly know how to estimate this reconnoissance—whether we will to-morrow morning return to Harper's Ferry, or whether this spot is destined to be the scene of important operations. The position is splendidly adapted for a pitched battle, and we all admire the location of our batteries, which have a clean, raking sweep down the valleys, all of which argues that they will not have a battle here.

LATER—9 o'clock P. M.—As I go to send this by messenger to Harper's Ferry, the impression is that there will be no engagement here—certainly none to-night. The firing off in the direction of Leetown and Shepherdstown, has now wholly ceased, and HUMPHREY'S force seems to have retired back instead of coming this way. The probability therefore, is, that the whole force will to-morrow morning return to Harper's Ferry, the object of the reconnoissance being accomplished, and there being no necessity for our remaining here to coöperate with others from above. Meanwhile I do not overestimate the present reconnoissance, or construe it into the forerunner of an immediate advance, for I assure you it has no such significance.

SUNDAY SENSATION AT HARRISBURGH

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Oct. 20.

The Harrisburgh Patriot and Union of this morning, says:

"As usual, on Sunday, the city was filled with exciting rumors, yesterday, the most important of which was the crossing of the Potomac River at Hancock by a large rebel force and their repulse by the Union troops with considerable slaughter on both sides.

A dispatch, to this effect, was received by Gov. CURTIN.

At the time of penning this item, however, no dispatches have been received by us confirming the above rumor."

THE WAR ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Operations against the Guerrillas at Island No. 21, &c.

CAIRO, Monday, Oct. 20.

There is nothing from Commerce to-day.

The officers of the steamer Pike, which arrives to-night, report having seen a small band of guerrillas at two different points between Smithland and Caseyville. Two thousand rebels are reported back of the latter place, and are only prevented from taking possession of the town by the presence of two gunboats.

The steamer Hazel Dell struck a snag yesterday and sunk on Smithland bar.

The steamer Eugene, from Memphis, brought one regiment, with a battery, to Island No. 21, where they landed to punish the rebels, who fired into the steamers Dickey and Continental on Friday. They have instructions from Gen. SHERMAN to destroy everything in the neighborhood.

Twenty secesh families have been banished from Memphis as a punishment for the guerilla outrages on the river.

RECENT OPERATIONS IN VIRGINIA.

A Cavalry Expedition to Catlet's Station.

Attempt to Capture a Rebel Train on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad.

The Country Beyond Centreville Swarming with Rebel Cavalry.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Oct. 20.

From the TIMES special correspondent at Centreville, we learn that Capt. CONDON, of the Second Virginia Cavalry, left that place on Saturday at noon with sixty men, spending the night at Bristow Station, and reaching a point near Catlett's on Sunday at noon—wishing to capture a train the rebels were running on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. The party waited till near 4 o'clock, concealed, at which time a small detachment was advanced to the station, driving in the rebel picket guard.

It was soon discovered that the enemy was guarding the train of cars, which was near the station. Capt. CONDON fell back to a piece of woods, to receive the attack he expected the enemy to make; but the latter, after advancing a short distance, retired, and our party returned to Centreville, arriving this morning.

The whole country between Centreville and the Rappahannock is swarming with rebel cavalry and scouts, who instantly note and report the slightest movement on the part of our forces.

THE LATE RECONNOISSANCES.

Another Reconnoissance in Force by Gen. Stahl—Gallant Charge by Major Knox into Thoroughfare Gap—A Brief Skirmish—The Enemy in Force at Warrenton—One Hundred Prisoners Captured—Loss of a Supply Train—A Few Shells are Thrown—The Reconnoissance to Leesburgh.

GEN. STAHL'S HEADQUARTERS, CENTREVILLE, Sunday, Oct. 19, 1862.

My last letter to the TIMES, which was permitted to pass the lines, from the best information I can obtain, was dated at Aldie. Letters were written by me and forwarded from Middleburgh, New-Salem and White Plains, but upon returning to this place, I found that the channel of communication had been dammed up by official and special dicta from Major-Gen. STOEL, prohibiting the forwarding of any letters whatever written by army correspondents, until after the return of Gen. STAHL from the reconnoissance, commenced on Wednesday last. As military law is supreme in these parts, of course all persons necessarily have to submit with as good grace as possible.

To commence anew the record of the last few days, Gen. STAHL started on Wednesday last with a force of cavalry and artillery for the purpose of picking a quarrel with the noted rebel, Gen. STUART, who was known to be at that time moving southward from Leesburgh, and east of the Bull Run range of hills—threatening our advanced post at this place. But few, however, seriously anticipated a formidable attack being made, but it was believed that this threatening attitude was assumed to cover other operations under way within the lines of the enemy. Our troops concentrated Wednesday night at Chantilly, and on Thursday morning advanced to Aldie. It was hoped and expected that STUART would make an attack at this point, but for reasons best known to himself, he declined the challenge to battle and fell back—to where our forces were not prepared to follow.

That night, near Aldie, the enemy's vedettes were discovered at various points, and there was some skirmishing with our pickets, and several members of the Loudon cavalry were captured. In one of these affairs the horse of a noted rebel, named RICHARDSON, was shot dead, and RICHARDSON fell with so much violence to the ground that he was taken up for dead, but was found to be only stunned. A number of prisoners were also taken here—principally bushwhackers.

Friday morning Gen. STAHL advanced toward Ashby's Gap,—passing through Middleburgh, Paris and Upperville, driving in the pickets advanced by Gen. HILL'S force—of infantry, cavalry and artillery—which occupies the different passes through the mountain in this vicinity. From Rickett's Cross Roads, five miles west of Middleburgh, Gen. STAHL, at about sunset, Friday evening, took the most direct route for New-Salem. The advance, at this time, was under Col. SACKETT, of the Ninth New-York Cavalry. He arrived at New-Salem late in the afternoon, and at once made a charge through the principal street,—having previously sent sufficient force around the place to guard all the roads leading to it. Here he captured a number of rebel soldiers on picket duty—advanced from Warrenton by the Second North Carolina Cavalry—and a large number of sick soldiers—in all about fifty persons. They were at once paroled.

When Col. SACKETT charged into this town the enemy's picket made a desperate but ineffectual effort to escape. One man, more determined than the rest, did not yield until after his horse had been shot from under him and he had attempted to escape by taking to the bush. The last word of warning was given him by the nearest soldier, when he threw up his cap and surrendered.

After a brief rest, Gen. STAHL moved to White Plains, where he encamped for the night. A picket was thrown forward to Thoroughfare Gap, and a small force went to Haymarket to look after a train containing supplies for Gen. STAHL'S command. It was found and believed to be safe, and would have been, had the order of Gen. STAHL been carried out to patrol the district between Bull Run and Warrenton on Friday. Unfortunately this order was not obeyed, and the consequence was the loss of the train, the particulars of which will be found in the proper place. The picket returned for duty in the Gap.

Saturday morning early, this picket was fired upon, and a man named JOHN N. BROCK, of the Ninth New-York Cavalry, was seriously wounded in the neck. At about day-break some of the soldiers discovered a horse at a barn near the Gap, with Uncle Samuel's initials upon his left fore-shoulder. They were about to bring him in when three rebel bushwhackers came out of a house near the place, and the foremost of them, with a vulgar oath, said: "Now, you d—d Yankees, we have got you and we will give it to you," and at once the three men fired. Although within a few yards of the objects of their hate, the party escaped without injury, and subsequently returned to the place and recovered the horse.

While the troops were getting ready to march, a man came dashing up to Gen. STAHL, and stated that the supply train at Haymarket had been captured. The report was but too true. It appears that a train of seven wagons—five loaded with forage and two with commissary stores—left Centreville at about 6 o'clock Friday evening, under a guard of thirty-two men commanded by Lieut. BALDWIN, of the Ninth New-York Cavalry. The train reached Haymarket at about 2 o'clock Saturday morning, and was halted in the main road leading through the village. At 6½ o'clock A. M., while the guard was preparing their morning meal, the Second North Carolina Cavalry—numbering about 500 men—charged into the town and captured the train and fifteen of the soldiers and six of the teamsters. It is stated that the officer in command deemed himself so secure from attack that he neglected to throw out a picket, and the consequence was that the guard was entirely taken by surprise. The management of this affair will be unofficially investigated. The cavalry fired one volley as they approached, and then used their sabres. Only three men were wounded—none of them seriously. The rebels remained long enough to hitch the mules to the wagons and then departed—taking the road toward Warrenton. The wagon master escaped capture by a very clever ruse. He had on a light-colored coat and hat, and looked very much like a real gray-back. When the cavalry approached he very coolly tied his horse in front of a house, and, walking in, seated himself as if he was the owner of all the surroundings. The rebel soldiers were deceived, believing him to be a resident of the place, and left him unmolested. As soon as they left the place he rode in to our picket in the Gap.

This unpleasant affair annoyed the Commanding General exceedingly, because it could have been so easily avoided had his orders been obeyed, and was the only drawback to our otherwise entirely successful expedition. Upon learning what had occurred Gen. STAHL promptly sent forward a detachment to capture the train if possible, and moved through the Gap with this whole force.

It appears that the enemy designed occupying this Gap himself to prevent the passage of Gen. STAHL'S command, and there was haste made on both sides to gain the position.

Major KNOX, of the Ninth New-York Cavalry, with thirty men, was sent forward as an advance guard. They had not penetrated the Gap a great distance when the bullets began to fly. A charge was made, and, after a brief skirmish, the enemy skedaddled. The position occupied by Major KNOX'S command while going through this gap was a hazardous one, and the success of gaining the advantage is due mainly to the gallant conduct of Major KNOX. When the men first came under fire they hesitated; but they were at once reassured when their commander dashed forward, and behaved well during the whole time after that they were under fire.

A Captain of the Ninth New-York Cavalry and two men were slightly wounded, and two horses were killed.

A TIMELY CAPTURE.

Thoroughfare Gap is one of the worst places imaginable for a wheeled vehicle to pass through, and it was not a matter of wonder when one of the caissons broke down. Not fifteen minutes after this accident, a rebel caisson, filled with amunition, was discovered, which supplied a deficiency that otherwise would have been seriously felt.

After the rebels had been dispersed by Major KNOX the rest of the command passed through the Gap without molestation, except an occasional shot fired by some Bushwhacker.

At noon the command rested at Gainsville, and they moved on toward Warrenton, driving the enemy before them. Near Warrenton several of the enemy's pickets were captured. The enemy was found to be in considerable force at Warrenton—five regiments and a battery. They fired a dozen shell at our advance, without damage, when Gen. STAHL, having accomplished the principal object of the reconnoissance, retired and reached Centreville at 1 o'clock this morning. Gen. STAHL endeavored to get the enemy out of town for an engagement, but in this he was unsuccessful; they only being disposed to fight unless having all the advantages of position and strength of force.

Here the wildest rumors prevailed as to the fate of Gen. STAHL'S command, and it was very generally believed that he had been cut off.

During the expedition, there were in all about one hundred prisoners captured, twelve horses, and one caisson. We lost two horses killed.

Strong patrols were sent out yesterday to scour the country. This was rendered necessary from the fact that the rebel pickets come within two miles of this place. At Bristow's Station the patrol discovered a train of cars and a small rebel cavalry force. They will be attended to to-day.

THE RECONNOISSANCE TO LEESBURGH.

At Aldie, on Friday, a force of cavalry under Lieut.-Col. KARGE, First New-Jersey Cavalry, left the main body and passed through Philmont, Snickersville, Mt. Gilead, &c., to Leesburgh. Some rebel pickets were discovered, but no force of the enemy is now near either of the places named. A rebel force was driven in at Stricket's Gap by Capt. HANLEY, of the Ninth New-York, and one company of WHITE'S Cavalry abandoned Leesburgh a short time before our troops reached that point. Col. KARGE returned this morning, having discharged the duties assigned him to the entire satisfaction of the commanding officer.

Gen. Stahl's Headquarters—Arrival of Reinforcements—Sympathies of the People—An Arrant Secessionist.

HEADQUARTERS OF GEN. STAHL, ALDIE, VA., Thursday, Oct. 17, 1862—2 o'clock, P. M.

The reinforcements, to which reference was made in my last, have arrived, and an advance will be made from this point as soon as the men and horses have had a short rest. Aldie is a little town pleasantly located in a little valley formed by the Bull Run range of hills or mountains, and a spur jutting out from that range. The surrounding country is rolling, interspersed with hill and dale, highly cultivated, and is picturesque in the extreme. Nature and man have both contributed to surround the place with many attractions; but here, as elsewhere, "grim-visaged war" has been felt in all its horrors. A majority of the people openly talk of "our government"—meaning the so-called Confederate concern—as if they were proud of their treason. To me, such talk sounds very much like the boastings of a felon the moment before he is to be launched into eternity at the hands of an authorized executioner. Conspicuous among those who thus boast is a Dr. BOYLE, an ardent, unprincipled fellow, who talks very glibly of his treason, and without even a blush of shame expresses the amiable wish that all the Union men in the town (for there are a few left) were hanged. While the Union troops are present he is as urbane and polite in his manners as a hired lacquey, but I am told that when all restraint over his conduct is withdrawn, to those who differ with him, he is overbearing and arrogant in the extreme. Here, too resides Mr. DAVIS, who has perhaps suffered as much as any other man in the State for his persistent loyalty in the face of obstacles that would have appalled any man made of less sterner stuff. Not only has his property been destroyed, and himself and family driven from their home—replete with everything necessary to make life pleasant—but he has been personally insulted; and finally, so bitter were the rebels hereabouts in their hatred against him, an armed force of fifty men made an attack upon him in his own house. As every man who is a man will always do, he defended his premises against the large odds against him to the best of his ability. He succeeded in killing one or more of his assailants, and wounding several more. Finally, overpowered by superior numbers, he was dragged forth bleeding from his domicil, to the yard in front, and there was wantonly stabbed with a bowie knife, and left upon the ground for dead. For six weeks his life hung in the balance. Possessing a strong constitution, he rallied, and is to-day as ardent in behalf of the Union cause as any man could wish, and is now, as he always has been, an invaluable aid in the military movements made in this vicinity. I visited his house to-day. Owing to the near proximity of the rebels, he has been absent from his home for six weeks previous to yesterday. His wife and young children were the sole occupants of the house during his absence. Surrounded by a hostile people, their position and his feelings can better be imagined than described. People in the Northern States, who have had no experience of war, cannot conceive of the hardships that the Union people experience.

Since writing the above, I am gratified in being able to state that Dr. BOYLE has been ordered under arrest by Gen. STAHL, and is now on his way to Fairfax Courthouse.

TERROR IN VIRGINIA.

A Slave Insurrection Feared in Culpepper—Seventeen Negroes Reported to be Hung, &c.

The Washington Republican, of yesterday, says:

"A refugee who came into Gen. STOEL'S head-quarters, from Amissaville, Culpepper County, Va., reports that there is the greatest consternation imaginable among the whites in that section in consequence of an apprehended negro revolt.

Seventeen negroes, most of them free, had been hung; copies of late Northern newspapers having been found upon them containing President LINCOLN'S proclamation to liberate the slaves.

The terror of the whites is reported to be beyond description.

It is said that the negroes of the different counties around Culpepper are all engaged in a conspiracy for a general insurrection."

The following dispatch from the Washington correspondent of the TIMES is confirmatory of the above:

"A gentleman who left Amissville, Culpepper County, Virginia, on last Wednesday, says that rebel conscripts are pouring constantly into Winchester. Seventeen negroes were hung there on the 11th inst., charged with organizing an insurrection against the whites. Copies of the Washington National Republican, containing the President's Proclamation of Emancipation were found among them. The conspiracy, our informant says, is supposed to extend throughout several counties, and the greatest excitement and fear prevails of an outbreak among the negroes. The inhabitants of the counties where the insubordination exists, threaten to resist the conscription act on the plea of self-defence, i. e. to protect themselves against the negroes. Two-thirds of the slaves in Virginia have already heard of President LINCOLN'S proclamation, and know that they are free, and thinks that should the rebel army retreat from its present position, another NAT. TURNER rebellion would occur in Eastern and Central Virginia.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Items of News from the Petersburgh and Richmond Papers.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, Oct. 18.

One hundred and fifty recruits arrived on the Baltimore boat this morning. They are for several different regiments in this vicinity. The same boat also brought down 224 rebel prisoners from Fort McHenry, who were taken at South Mountain and Antietam. They came in charge of A. H. LINDSEY, of the Eighteenth Connecticut Regiment. The prisoners belong in Virginia and Louisiana, and left here for Aiken's Landing at 12 o'clock on the steamboat New-York.

All was quiet in Suffolk this morning.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, Oct. 19.

The John A. Warner, (flag of truce,) from Aiken's Landing, arrived last evening just before the Baltimore boat left. Five hundred and sixty Union prisoners came down in charge of Maj. R. W. SHENK, of the One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Pennsylvania. They were delayed nearly one day by running aground above City Point.

This morning the Baltimore boat brought eighty-six rebel prisoners from Fort McHenry. The flag-of-truce boat Metamora, left to-day to convey them to Aiken's Landing. They are privates and mostly wounded.

The storm has entirely subsided, and the fleet which had taken shelter in this harbor, left at an early hour this morning.

The Petersburgh Express, of Oct. 15, says:

Two thousand Yankee prisoners are daily expected to arrive in Petersburgh, for the North.

Wild geese and wild ducks are very plenty on the James River, but there are no sportsmen to shoot them.

Wheat has declined considerably, being now held at $3 75 per bushel.

We fear much trouble and vast suffering from the scarcity of coal.

STEPHEN CONKLING, a member of the Fifty-third New-York Regiment, captured near the Blackwater, was brought here yesterday and lodged in jail."

The Richmond Dispatch, of Oct. 16, says:

"We infer that the Federals will soon make a desperate effort to force iron-clads past Drury's Bluff. Forewarned, let us be forearmed.

A battle occurred in Perryville on the 14th inst., which Kentucky will mourn for many years. Federal loss heavy. PARTRIDGE says it was a drawn battle. The rebel forces fell back six miles.

Wm. T. Shoemaker, Geo. Welsh, Peter H. Mills and Charles S. Baker, members of Company A, First Maryland Cavalry, a Yankee organization, were received at the Confederate prison yesterday, to be tried for murder committed in the Valley of Virginia.

Forty-three deserters were sent away from Richmond yesterday, under guard, to their respective regiments near Winchester, Va."

The Richmond Examiner of the 17th says:

"The good people of Charleston, S. C., have had a celebration in their city, baptizing a marine ram or ladies' gunboat built there.

As Congress has failed to make any enactments in regard to martial law, it follows that it has no longer any existence in this Confederacy, and any attempts to continue martial law in any form or disguise is in derogation of the law-making power of Government and in defiance of the Constitution.

Our Southern Confederacy is sadly afflicted with dishonest Postmasters, especially in North Carolina. The cause of this complaint is the non-receipt of subscriptions said to be forwarded by mail to newspapers."

The Examiner, of the 17th, claims the victory at the battle of Perryville. It says the Federal loss in killed, wounded and captured was over twenty thousand. The Confederate loss was five thousand.

In the Mayor's Court at Richmond, Oct. 16, JAMES SIMPSON was charged with buying $170 worth of bacon, butter and eggs to sell at his store; the facts being established, the butter and eggs were confiscated. In the same Court J. CROPPER had twenty-two dozen eggs confiscated, and E. J. TALLIAFERRO was fined ten dollars for riding a horse in the street faster than six miles an hour.

"The Varieties Theatre to-night," says the Examiner, "gives a benefit for the sufferers of Wilmington, North Carolina."

The Pirate Alabama.

BOSTON, Monday, Oct. 20.

The Portuguese brig Acaso has been chartered at Fayal by the American Consul, to proceed to Flores and take the Alabama's released prisoners to Boston.

Report of Committee on Roads of Board of Council which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury balance at the close of the week, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season

	Oct. 19, 1861.	Oct. 18, 1862.	Oct. 11, 1862.
Capital	$69,050,000	$69,125,000	$69,125,000
Loans	151,828,438	172,512,085	169,675,009
Specie	42,282,684	38,750,256	39,203,086
Circulation	8,588,673	9,907,529	9,880,050
Gross Deposits	146,900,320	206,911,478	203,479,102
Exchanged	20,467,257	42,574,020	40,513,838
Undrawn	126,433,063	164,337,458	162,965,264
In Sub-Treasury	9,127,109	8,249,840	8,555,265

The Bank return shows another considerable increase in Loans and Discounts, and a further gain on the line of Deposits. The change in the Specie average is about half a million lower than the previous statement. The market for Money is easy to-day at 4@5 ℘ cent. to the Stock Brokers. There is very little Merchant paper offering outside of Bank. The rates for strictly first-class names are 4@6 ℘ cent. as in date. The Customs Duties to-day are $178,000. The United States Notes for Custom-house duties fluctuated from 124¾ as on Saturday, down to 121¾ ℘ cent.; influenced by the decline in Gold. At the close this afternoon the quotation returned to 122½@¾ ℘ cent. The Exchange on London fell to 140½@141 ℘ cent.

Some intimations having been thrown out that the Trust Companies have participated in the recent speculation in Gold, by lending Currency upon it, we find on inquiry that the old New-York Life and Trust Company have at no time, since the suspension of Specie Payments lent money upon Gold, or in any way countenanced the speculation in it even to the extent of receiving special deposits. The United States Trust Company have made some loans upon it at par; but we do not understand the officers of the Company at present to encourage the operation.

The price of Gold opened this morning as it closed on Saturday, 129¼@130; sales at 130 ℘ cent. before the Stock Board met. At the Board the dealings began at 129¼ and ran down to 128¾ ℘ cent. Soon after the adjournment of the morning session the price fell on the street to 128@127¾ ℘ cent., and later in the forenoon 127 ℘ cent. was quoted, and at the Second Board $120,000 sold at that figure. The subsequent sales were at 127¼@127¾ ℘ cent., closing at 127¼ ℘ cent.

The Share Market was quite feverish through the early part of the day, the course of the speculative dealings being to lower figures. At the Second Board the decline became more apparent and general, though said to be confined mainly to offers to sell on time options. A moderate amount of only cash business was pressed, and after the brokers adjourned to the Street the demand improved and carried up prices on Erie and some of the Westerns ¼@¾ ℘ cent. New-York Central and Harlem were also firmer than the lowest sales, and the general feeling at the very close was one of firmness; the offerings of Cash Stocks being limited. In United States Securities the business of the day was unimportant; prices steady. Missouri and Tennessee Stocks weaker. The following are about the latest quotations as compared with Saturday afternoon:

It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, that the Commissioners have called a meeting to be held at Chicago on the 19th of November next, for the election of Directors of the Chicago and Alton Railroad Company.

Nearly three years ago this property passed into the hands of JAMES ROBB, Esq., as Receiver. At that time its condition was that of exhaustion. Its bridges were unsafe, its track out of repair, an army of clamorous creditors existed along the whole route, and private liens existed to the amount of upward of $700,000. Under the judicious management of Mr. ROBB, these have been extinguished by the payment of cash or bonds; the old bridges for the most part have been superseded by new structures of the most substantial character, about eighty miles, or more than one-third of its track ballasted with gravel, and twenty-three new locomotives and over 400 cars renewed, or added to the equipment, at a cost of nearly $700,000, which has been paid out of the net earnings of the road; and is is now among the most important and popular thoroughfares centering in Chicago.

The new corporation will represent the following issues of bonds and stocks:

First Mortgage Preferred Sinking Fund Bonds, 7 ℘ cent	$600,000
First Mortgage, 7 ℘ cent	2,100,000
Income Bonds, 7 ℘ cent	1,050,000
Preferred 7 ℘ cent. Stock	2,300,000
Common Stock	1,700,000
Total	$7,750,000

The Commissioners named in the new act of incorporation met at Chicago on the 16th inst., and elected JAMES ROBB, President, and JOSEPH PRICE, Secretary.

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer was as follows: Receipts, $473,457 75, including for customs, $178,000; Payments, $515,920 33; Balance, $8,207,378 38.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our dispatches from the Army of the Potomac state that quiet reigns along the lines.

A dispatch is said to have been received by Gov. CURTIN at Harrisburgh on Sunday, stating that the rebels in heavy force had crossed the Potomac river at Hancock, but had been repulsed by the National forces, with considerable slaughter on both sides. The dispatch was probably only a Sunday sensation, as its statements are not confirmed.

The Washington Republican gives currency to a story, said to have been brought to Gen. SIGEL'S headquarters by a refugee from Amissville, Culpepper County, Va., to the effect that, in consequence of an apprehended revolt of the slaves in that region, seventeen negroes, most of them free, had been hung—Northern newspapers having been found on them containing the President's emancipation proclamation. The terror of the white population is represented to be very great.

A party of our cavalry went from Centreville to the vicinity of Catlett's Station on Saturday, with the intention of capturing a rebel train on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad; but the enemy, having been apprised of our approach, took means to prevent the success of the expedition. The whole country between Centreville and the Rappahannock is reported to be swarming with rebel cavalry.

Copies of the Richmond Dispatch, of Oct. 17, have been received. It claims that the rebels have captured from nine to ten thousand prisoners in the Kentucky and other battles in the West. It also exults over STUART'S late raid into Pennsylvania. Offensive war is strongly urged, and no quarters if emancipation is proclaimed. Baltimore rebels have rumors of Nashville having been captured, but the stories are wholly unreliable.

GENERAL NEWS.

Advices from Europe two days later are received by the steamship Bavaria, which passed Cape Race on Sunday afternoon. She left Southampton on the 8th inst. The President's Emancipation Proclamation had reached England, and of course received much attention. The London Times does not question the right of the President to issue it, but insists that he is without the power to enforce his decree. The North, it thinks, must conquer every square mile of the South before it can make the proclamation of more effect than mere waste paper. The Jura, heavily laden with stores for the rebels, was run into by another vessel in the Clyde, and sunk. The French Gen. CHANGARNIER had taken the trouble to deny the truth of a rumor that he had been offered the command of the National forces by President LINCOLN. Letters have been received in Paris from Vera Cruz, which give different accounts of affairs in Mexico from those published in the French papers. According to these accounts, the French will not have an easy road to travel to the Mexican Capital. JUAREZ is preparing for a desperate resistance; the City of Mexico is strongly fortified, and the advance from Orizaba will be disputed inch by inch. GARIBALDI and his followers, as we were led to expect by previous advices, have been granted an amnesty by King VICTOR EMANUEL, exception being made in the cases of deserters from the royal army. The Liverpool Cotton market was buoyant, and an advance had taken place on all varieties. Breadstuffs were steady, and Provisions dull. Consols were quoted at 94¼ for Money.

The Philadelphia North American enumerates the Congressmen elected in Pennsylvania as follows: Union, 14; Breckinridgers, 10. It puts down SAMUEL STEELE BLAIR as reelected, and HENRY M. TRACY, Independent Republican, and PHILIP BAILEY, as Democrats. It supposes the complexion of the next Legislature to be as follows: Senate, Union, 20; Breckinridge, 16. House, Union, 48; Breckinridge, 50; two not ascertained. FRANK W. HUGHES will not be elected United States Senator. CHARLES DENISON, of Wilkesbarre, who has been elected by 3,884 majority over Speaker GROW, was elected on the following platform and pledge:

Resolved, That we are in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war to suppress the rebellion, and that all the means possessed by the Government should be employed to that end.

Mr. DENISON accepted in the following terms:

"And, in accepting your nomination, I think proper to say that if elected I will sustain the Government in putting down the rebellion, and in its efforts to restore the Union and enforce the laws; and that I will, to the extent of my power, support the Constitution in all its requirements."

The Board of Aldermen met at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. The name of D. RANDOLPH MARTIN, for Street Commissioner, was rejected by 10 to 5. The Comptroller reported that the receipts in the City Treasury last week, amounted to $1,595,594 25, (the tax collections during that time having been large;) the balance on hand last Saturday amounted to $1,332,333 88. The appropriation of $6,500 to meet the expenses of the Corcoran and Downey receptions, was concurred in. The ordinance appropriating $53,000 to take up the old and put down new mains in Fifth-avenue, came back from the Councilmen with a proviso for a contract. Mr. DAYTON said the work was of such a delicate character, that it was doubtful whether it ought to be done by contract. The Croton Board could do it much better and more economically by days' work than any contractor would. The ordinance was referred to the Croton Aqueduct Committee. The Board adjourned till to-day at 1 o'clock, on the motion of Mr. OTTIWELL, and his statement that the Mayor, likely, would then send them a name for Street Commissioner upon which they could all agree(?).

The Board of Councilmen met last evening and transacted considerable business—most of it routine and devoid of general interest. The half million Family Aid Ordinance No. 4, introduced at the previous meeting by Mr. ORTON, was taken up and passed. The $1,000,000 Harbor and City Defence Ordinance was received from the other Board and laid over under the rule. The Board adjourned to Thursday.

The Union Association of the Twenty-first Ward held a ratification meeting at their Rooms corner of Thirty-second-street and Broadway. Addresses were delivered by Hon. JAMES WADSWORTH, PARKE GODWIN, JOSEPH HOXIE and J. WILSON GREEN, amid much cheering, and about 10 o'clock the meeting adjourned.

The trial of JOHN REYNOLDS for the murder of the pugilist, PAT. MATTHEWS, on the 6th of February last, was commenced in the Court of Sessions, before Recorder HOFFMAN, yesterday, and will be continued at 11 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. LINCOLN left Washington on yesterday morning to make a visit to her son ROBERT, who is pursuing his studies at Cambridge. She designed going viâ Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, and will make a short stay in this City where she arrived last evening.

Workmen at the Philadelphia navy-yard are making preparations to lay the keel of the Iron-clad steamer on the railway connected with the stone basin. The new frigate will have a much heavier frame than the Ironsides. The timbers for it are now chiefly in the navy-yard, and a force of men is to be put at once to work upon them. The length of the vessel over all will be 275 feet, breadth of beam 50 feet. This will give her the same beam as the Ironsides, but an excess of length of 35 feet. Her armament is to consist mainly of 15-inch guns, which carry a shot of 450 pounds. The only objection to building the vessel in the open air is that the cold and stormy season is approaching, when the workmen will not be able to make much more than half time.

In one of the cases found on board the prize steamer Bermuda, at Philadelphia, were many brass buttons, having stamped upon them the coat-of-arms of Georgia, South Carolina, and one or two others of the rebel States. These, with the postage stamps, big guns, bomb-shells, powder and small arms, go pretty far to make out that the vessel, though intended to be taken into Nassau, was destined for a Southern port. The steamer is still lying at the foot of Queen-street, and will remain there until a decision, expected during the present week, is given by the Prize Court.

The United States steamer Augusta was taken off the dock at the Philadelphia Navy-yard, on Saturday. She will be immediately fitted out for service.

The total number of drafted men in Camp Cleveland, Ohio, on Oct. 17 was 1,667. The commissioners reported 2,112 as drafted. Of these, one hundred and two were exempted by surgeons. Three hundred and eighty of the entire number furnished substitutes.

Three gentlemen, charged with being Confederate agents—C. W. BALDWIN, J. H. AUSTEN, and A. W. PATTERSON—were arrested in St. Louis on Thursday. A search of their effects brought to light about $1,000 worth of rare and costly drugs.

Judge RICE, of Illinois, has decided that colored persons are not privileged to teach school in that State, and that the public moneys connot be appropriated to pay their salaries.

The argument on the Seventh-avenue Railway injunction, at Supreme Court Chambers, was not reached yesterday, and will doubtless be heard to-day. The counsel for the Company objected to the hearing of the motion by any Judge not of this district.

The price of Gold fell to 127@127¼ ₱ cent. yesterday, as against 129¾@130 on Saturday afternoon. The Share market was feverish and lower, but closed comparatively firm. Exchange fell to 140½@141 ₱ cent.

Breadstuffs were depressed yesterday, and prices were generally lower. Provisions were more freely offered, and were in less demand at drooping rates. Cotton was much cheaper, and inactive. Sugars, Molasses, Rice, and Spices were quiet. Coffee, Whisky, Hay, Hops and Tallow were in fair demand at uniform quotations. The freight market was lower, and irregular.

The Forty-fourth-street cattle-market was quite lively yesterday. About 4,700 beeves were in the yards, and the bright, cool weather favored trade. Sales were brisk in the forenoon, with a moderate business during the rest of the day. The cattle were of good quality, with a few exceptions, and butchers paid one or two dollars per head more than last week, particularly for first-class cattle. The numbers sold at 8¼c.@9c. yesterday were certainly greater than one week ago, though owners were unwilling to admit an advance. With a few more droves to arrive, there will hardly be much variation to-day. Hogs have suddenly gone up near 1c. ₱ lb.

THE SURRENDER OF HARPER'S FERRY—WHAT OUGHT TO BE DONE.—There is some prospect that the President may act directly upon the report of the Military Commission appointed to investigate the surrender of Harper's Ferry. Too long a time has already elapsed before the calls of justice are listened to in that case; and it may instruct us as to what ought to be done in the matter, to note what was done in a somewhat similar one, as narrated by the historian MOTLEY.

In the great struggle of the Sixteenth Century between Liberty, represented by the united Netherlands, and Slavery, then represented by the Power of Spain, ALEXANDER FARNESE laid siege to the City of Grave with an army of about 8,000 men. The city was held by about 1,800 men, under the command of Baron HEMART, a man "of small experience in military affairs;" and during the siege an additional force of 500 men was thrown into the place. FARNESE opened his fire upon the city on the 5th of June. The Spaniards were driven back in their first assault upon a tower, but on the next morning HEMART opened negotiations for a surrender, and obtained easy terms, and on June 7 the garrison marched out with colors displayed and drums beating. All the officers except three had protested against the surrender. There are several points of similarity between the two cases, as will be seen. Both places were reinforced. In both the besiegers were driven back on their first assault, and then the place was yielded against the protest of the under officers.

How was the surrender of Grave treated? HEMART was at once placed under arrest. A Court-Martial was called on June 26, which at once found that his conduct deserved death. Great efforts were made to save his life. He "was a young man without experience," and had been overcome by the outcries of the women, and there was no proof of treachery or of personal cowardice. HEMART himself begged hard for his life, that he might, by long service as a private soldier without pay, wipe out the stain upon his reputation. But it was all in vain. The Generals of that time felt that "in such a time, when men had come to think no more of giving up a town than of abandoning a house, it was highly necessary to afford an example to traitors and satisfaction to the people;" and on the 28th of June, HEMART and two of the three captains who had not protested against the surrender, were beheaded.

What was the result? The next place that FARNESE besieged, with a garrison of only 1,600, resisted his army of 10,000 for a month, and was only taken by storm. The next siege was the famous one of Sluys, in the following Summer, in which a garrison of 1,600 defended two miles and a half of ramparts, besides forts and ravelins, "against 6,000 Spaniards from early in June till the 5th of August, having in the place," as one of them said, "no Hemarts, but valiant captains and valiant soldiers, such as with God's help had rather be buried in the place than be disgraced in any point that belongs to such a number of men of war."

Such was the treatment which such surrenders met in the good old times. We do not believe that later days have found a better way. Such cases call for swift and sharp treatment. The death of Col. MILES may have saved from punishment the one at whose door the evacuation of Marylandheights and the consequent surrender of Harper's Ferry really lies. But unless it is shown conclusively that it lay at his door, the people will only be satisfied by stern and speedy justice upon those who are guilty.

Seymourism as Conservatism.

The Seymourites of this State love to style themselves Conservatives. They are somewhat chary of the old appellation of Democrats. Seeing that the leading portion of the old party of that name are now in armed rebellion, and that its best portion are now staunch supporters of the Government in distinction from themselves, and mindful too of the prejudices of their old foes, and present allies, the Know-Nothings, they rather shun a designation so unpleasantly suggestive, and take to one of a little more attractive cast. They fancy that they gain a point in adopting a name usually connected with respectability.

But what do these politicians mean by it? Does it involve any idea appropriate to the period? Every man, of course, knows what conservatism implies in the "piping times of peace." We can all understand, and in some sort admire too, the disposition to walk in the good old ways, and to cultivate the virtues of contentment, moderation, and prudence. In ordinary times, the conservative policy is simply the policy of keeping things quiet, and maintaining the status quo. But we are not living in ordinary times. We are in the midst of the most dreadful civil war this globe has ever known. Death is now the only quiet, and rivers of blood the only status quo. Is it the conservation of these things the Seymourites mean? We suppose not. They are said to have a particular aversion to all such sights and experiences.

Well, then, is it the conservation of the Constitution and the Union they are after? It is precisely this which Gen. WADSWORTH seeks, and every man in the State who intends to vote for him. It is precisely this which President LINCOLN, and all his constitutional advisers, and all his Generals, are trying to accomplish. The sole object of the war is to save the Constitution and the Union. It was so declared in the beginning, and will be so followed to the end. In this sense, those who support the war are conservatives, and the only conservatives. The rebels who struggle to break up the Constitution and the Union, and they who give them aid and comfort, are the true and only destructives.

But the Seymourites will still persist in dubbing themselves conservatives. Have they no pretext for it? Is there indeed nothing to give coloring to the assumption? Something there assuredly is, for there is never simulation without some plausibility. In one view, these men are conservatives; and strongly, desperately so. They are for conserving Slavery, at all costs and to the last extremity. They have no other idea of conservatism than that; and it is simply and solely because the supporters of the Administration contemplate the destruction of Slavery, in case that step be considered necessary for the salvation of the Union, that they are denounced as destructives. These Seymourites thus, though they do not distinctly avow it, really make Slavery the sovereign test of conservatism. It is adherence to this institution, and not the National Constitution, which, in their regard, determines whether a man is conservative or not. The emancipationist, as they will have it, is de facto a disorganizer; and the Pro-Slavery man a preserver.

We know that these men object to having it presented in just that shape. When these factionists cloak themselves in conservatism, they don't mean it shall be exactly in the wraprascal of Slavery, but rather in the imperial purple of the Constitution. Their talk is that Slavery is secured by the Constitution, and that what puts an end to one must put an end to the other. It is all a base cheat. The Constitution does not guaranty Slavery. There is not a line in it to that effect. All that it undertakes is to remand slaves escaping from one State to another when claimed, and to protect any State "against domestic violence," including, of course, servile insurrection. But there is nothing here securing the vitality of Slavery. Two of its liabilities are guarded against, but further than that, there is nothing stipulated. The Constitution was designed to be permanent, and yet, when it was made, it was believed that Slavery could not outlast one or two generations. In fact, Slavery has since been ended in half of the original thirteen States, without affecting the Constitution one iota. Just so, too, it might be ended in every State without the slightest injury to an organic law. This would be the same, whether it were done by voluntary State action, or in answer to a military necessity under the laws of war. President LINCOLN deems that such a necessity now exists, and, therefore, in his capacity as Commander-in-Chief, has issued his proclamation of emancipation. The Seymourites may question, if they please, whether there be such a necessity. But that is simply a question of fact—not one of constitutional law at all. The supporters of the Administration believe that there is such a necessity, and are ready to follow it out. They will do so, and expect thereby to close the war and save the Constitution. If the Seymourites do not believe it, let them seek to disprove it. Let them show that, while the necessities of the war daily impose all other injuries upon the rebel foe, they exempt his slave property—that, though ports may be blockaded to keep rebel armies from being clothed, slaves must not be set free to keep the same armies from being fed—that though these armies may be swept into annihilation on the open plain, there must be no interference with the blacks, who are compelled to make intrenchments, which will save them from such a fate. All this is allowable. But when these factious men undertake to repel this military necessity, not on the ground of fact, but from a pretended concern for the Constitution, the imposture is palpable. It is understood at once that their chief concern is for Slavery; that they care not what risks of eternal destruction the Constitution incurs, if so be that Slavery remains safe.

The difference between the Administration and its enemies lies here exactly. While the former holds everything subordinate to the salvation of the Constitution, which it has sworn to protect without condition, the latter holds everything subordinate to the security of Slavery, which they have never failed to serve without limit. While the former works for and looks for no end of the war, but in the complete restoration and vindication of Federal authority, the latter seeks and anticipates a peace short of that—a peace which shall be a compromise, and, by new concessions, reconcile Slavery to the present Government; or, that failing, a peace which shall be a surrender, and remit Slavery to a distinct and independent Government. In short, while the former would destroy Slavery, if need be, to save the Nation, the latter would destroy the nation, if need be, to save Slavery. So much for the conservatism of the Seymourites.

Sucking the Treasury—Colonization Schemes.

In behalf of a suffering National Treasury, we protest against the further consideration of schemes for sending the newly enfranchised blacks to foreign colonies. Every day we see the engineering appliances of these gigantic jobs peering through the Washington dispatches. They have been exposed and exploded, and it is time they were abandoned.

Mr. POMEROY, of Kansas, had a notable project on hand, which was supposed to be under the patronage of the President. At all events, Mr. POMEROY was willing for it to be so regarded by the public. Somewhere in Central America, a Mr. THOMPSON ("with a p,") wished to sell a million or two acres of land, or perhaps a small State, to the United States Government. Mr. POMEROY would go out and examine it, taking his black colonists with him. If he liked, he would buy, plant his colonists there, and divide the territory among them. If he did not like, why, the world was large, his commission broad, his backer strong, he would reëmbark his wares, and set sail for "Cowes and a market."

But who doubts that Mr. THOMPSON and Mr. POMEROY would have traded? When, ever, were such immense transfers of land and money left to two individuals so wholly engaged in philanthropy as these two, and a way not found to achieve a judicious business transaction? To be sure, there seemed to be a slight flaw in the programme. It was positively asserted, by those who claimed to know, that Mr. THOMPSON not only had no vacant States and Territories lying around loose in Central America, but that he had no title to even so much as a foot of land in any tropical region—unless it might be one too tropical to name in this connection. It was further said—and this seemed a rather formidable difficulty—that the Central American States positively refused to receive as colonists any of the cast-off race of the United States. Mr. SEWARD has since, by a published circular, fully confirmed this statement. But it is hard to kill a scheme in which the most of the money used is "clear profit." Accordingly, we find by very fresh dispatches from Washington that Mr. POMEROY, having just returned from Kansas, is "very happy to inform the public that nothing has occurred to give him the slightest discouragement as to the success of his colonizing scheme!"

This is amazing. The Government of the United States hasn't a foot of land in Central America. Mr. THOMPSON has none there to sell; and if he had, the Governments there will permit no negro colonists to enter. Yet the scheme is boldly thrust anew on the country, and one of our City cotemporaries, a few days since, asserted that $24,000 had actually been obtained from the National Treasury to sustain it! By whose order—by whose countenance—by whose permission—by whose negligence is this plunder permitted?

We discover a new trick to help on this Colonization speculation. A Commissioner has been sent down to canvass the sentiments of the "contrabands" at Fortress Monroe and Norfolk. They are reported to be unanimous in favor of expatriation, so much do they dread the climate of the North, and so much do they fear their old masters will catch them! This will do to "tell to the marines," but every person who knows negro nature knows that negroes have no such passion for exile in unknown, distant lands. This story is a bait on the Colonization hook to catch simple-minded Congressmen.

Cannot the President quietly and quickly crush these immense speculating jobs by establishing a military protectorate over Florida, and offering free homes to the enfranchised blacks who will go thither? The United States owns more "tropical" lands in Florida and Texas than would make six such countries as Central America. It is bought and paid for—and now it has to be redeemed afresh, with treasure and blood, from the grasp of treason. Who will till these tropical lands, if we send away the African race to foreign shores? Why should we win them back, if they are to lie wild and uncultured for generations, as they already have lain for centuries? The United States cannot afford such speculations as Mr. POMEROY invites us to—the spending of a thousand million dollars to enfranchise labor and export it to regions where it will never add a dollar to the National Treasury, so exhausted by sacrifices in its behalf. The proposition is preposterous. It is monstrous. Away with it!

NEGRO HANGING IN THE SOUTH.—A Washington paper has heard a story of the hanging of seventeen negroes in Virginia for having in their possession copies of the Emancipation Proclamation of President LINCOLN. We expect to hear from the SEYMOUR party a deep and indignant howl over this affair. It will be contended that the President's sympathy for the slave has proved the greatest cruelty to him, and that the best way to promote the happiness of the oppressed race is to "let his master alone."

If the story had been that seventeen whites in the South had been murdered by the negroes, being excited thereto by the proclamation, the outcry from the SEYMOUR party would have been absolutely deafening and uncontrolable. It is clear that, in either case, whether white men or black men were murdered, the proclamation would have been deemed the cause, and its policy thereupon condemned as bloody and atrocious. A word upon these points.

Mr. LINCOLN did not issue his Proclamation primarily from sympathy for the slaves, but from antipathy and hostility to rebel masters. If cruelties are inflicted on the slaves by reason of the President's act, the fact will only establish the injustice and inhumanity of the slaveocrats who commit the deed. And the President can be consoled for the lamentable result by the reflection that the present ills to a few blacks will be compensated for by the greater good to millions of whites whose fate is involved in the war; and further, that the frenzy of the moment that dashes out a few lives of slaves, is evidence of a medicine in the Southern system that in the end will rescue the black race from its moral atrophy and make it a positive power in the world.

THE SAME WITH A MATERIAL DIFFERENCE.—The Seymourites are claiming the victories of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania and Ohio as premonitions of their own forthcoming triumph in New-York. The Government has been beaten, they say, in a fair fight by the Democracy of those States; it will be beaten quite as surely here. There is, however, a notable halt in this reasoning. The Democrats of the Western States did not take ground against the Administration. They declared for the war and its prosecution to the bitter end; they declared their intention to sustain President LINCOLN, and especially to sustain him in a more vigorous exertion of power to repress the rebellion. There was nothing in their published resolutions, or their speeches, to indicate any relaxation of effort against traitors, or any willingness to regard treason with tenderness, or to call it by pet names. They announced themselves as War Democrats, and took issue with the Republicans upon the comparative ability of the two parties to urge the contest with the greater zeal.

Seymourism is not of this sort. It gathers within its fold all the sympathizers with rebellion—all the self-conscious traitors, whose clamors about Fort Lafayette are the suggestions of perturbed consciences. It has gentle words for traitors; it has open denunciation of the Government; it sows broadcast the seeds of enmity between the loyal people of the country. In Ohio, such men as VALLANDIGHAM were consigned to obscurity. In New York such men swarm on Congressional and local tickets, and are representative men of the party. To say, therefore, that the Democratic successes of the West have any bearing upon the probable issue of our own canvass is simply a harmless flight of audacity.

UNAUTHORIZED EXPOSURE OF PRIVATE LETTERS.—When JOHN VAN BUREN read Gen. SCOTT'S letter before the Cooper Institute meeting of Seymourites, he was particular to state that he was "not authorized by Gen. SCOTT to make the letter public." The letter, it will be recollected, was addressed to the consideration of President LINCOLN, and reached him through the hands of Mr. SEWARD. It was a private letter—we might perhaps style it a sacredly confidential letter. Certainly, in view of the effect its publication is calculated to have on the reputation of the parties concerned, it was not the interest either of the writer or of the receivers of it that its contents should ever be known. And we took the liberty, a few days ago, in denouncing the breach of confidence involved in the exposure of the letter, to ask Mr. VAN BUREN who was guilty of the bad act of securing it for publication.

Mr. VAN BUREN has not replied. But the dispatches from Washington, yesterday, contained a disclaimer on the part of the President and Mr. SEWARD of having published or authorized to be published the letter, or of having any cognizance of the means by which it reached the public. Inasmuch as Mr. VAN BUREN had previously acquitted Gen. SCOTT of any agency in the matter, the case is perfectly clear that there has been unpardonable bad faith, if not downright dishonor, in the use made of the letter. The letter itself is of no consequence now. It has been superseded, like a thousand other speculations of honest but mistaken men on the cause, and cure of the rebellion. But the act of violating private confidence is an individual degradation, and a social wrong that party advantage can never excuse. It is more important to Mr. VAN BUREN that he clear his reputation of the stain of this shameful deed, than the letter itself is important to the cause he sought to advocate by it.

REBEL GREAT GUNS.—We are occasionally informed by imaginative skippers that rebel pirates have fired at them with Armstrong guns. And all the peculiar missiles from rebel field and deck are positively distinguished by the name of some well-known European ordnance maker. The Armstrong gun is certainly a formidable machine, but it may be some consolation to know that there was never one of them in rebel or any other but British hands. The Government for whose exclusive use they are made at its own arsenal at Woolwich, and at its chartered gun-factory at Elswick, does not retail cannon, any more than the United States Government peddles Springfield muskets or Dahlgren guns. Nor does any other establishment in England or elsewhere make any ordnance resembling Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG'S. The only remarkable guns obtained by the rebels in England are Capt. BLAKELY'S, (resembling PARROT'S,) made by Messrs. FAUCETT, PRESTON & Co., of Liverpool, and Mr. JOSEPH WHITWORTH'S, made at his works in Manchester. The Whitworth projectile are always hexagonal, unlike all others, and hence are the only ones that can identify the gun. The Blakely ordnance is rifled in numerous ways, and is as likely to fire solid bolts as expanding shot. The later Armstrong gun is peculiar in having very numerous small grooves, (74 in the 100 pounder,) but, like the Stately gun, it can fire our own—JAMES' or HOTCHKISS')—shot as well as its own expanding missile.

A PROSPECT OF REBELLION AGAINST THE REBELS.—It would not be astonishing if there were a basis of truth to the reports that come from Eastern Virginia of difficulties among the slaves. Gen. POPE operated extensively in the region around Culpepper, on the Rappahannock, where the slave revolt is apprehended, and stirred up considerably the social organization and the slave system there; and though we suppose that a large number of the resident negroes have been removed from a locality which might any day be in our possession, yet there are enough left to give serious trouble for a time. The negroes in the towns of this part of Virginia are quite intelligent, many of them can read, and the news of the Emancipation Proclamation has undoubtedly by this time penetrated every cabin round about.

On the other hand, it is quite as likely that the conspiracy is simply born of the fears of the whites. Say what the Southerners will, there is nothing that has for many years been more generally apprehended and dreaded throughout the Slave States than negro conspiracies and negro revolts. Extraordinary precautions have always been taken against them, and every means put in operation to ferret them out should they be suspected; and in this way the negroes have frequently been suspected of conspiracy, and of forming plans of insurrection, when they were altogether innocent of such designs.

There is no doubt whatever that on the first sign of slave rebellion anywhere in the South, the most sanguinary means will be adopted by the white rebels to crush out the black ones; and the hanging of the seventeen negroes reported will be but the beginning of the terrible punishment that will be meted out to the negroes of Culpepper County, if there is truth in the story of their conspiracy. Every such effort will be quickly drowned in the blood of the rebellious slaves; and as anything like unity of action on the part of the latter is impossible, it will be an easy thing for those white rebels, left by the conscription, to crush out the insurrectionary attempts in their respective localities. Southern slave insurrections, on any formidable scale, are quite impossible at present. The rebels will suffer from the Emancipation Proclamation, and the negroes will get the benefit of it, just as our army advances.

WADSWORTH AND MCCLELLAN.—The Democratic Press of the State are making much capital out of a statement of Mr. JOHN VAN BUREN that Gen. WADSWORTH has been a systematic detractor of President LINCOLN and Gen. MCCLELLAN. Prince JOHN pretended the existence of evidence for this charge, but failed to produce it. Why is it not forthcoming? Possibly for the sufficient reason that Gen. WADSWORTH has never been to the slightest degree amenable to the accusation; and that he has not, we have the highest authority for asserting. The whole story is a deliberate and shameless invention, without the slightest basis of fact.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Oct. 20.

COMING EVENTS.

An interview of Gen. HALLECK to-day with the President in the presence of the Secretary of War, is significant of the events foreshadowed in our dispatches of last week, and which cannot much longer be delayed.

THE ADMINISTRATION IN MISSOURI.

While the Administration seems to be losing ground in the free border States, advices from Missouri show it to be gaining there. A rapid change is taking place in public sentiment on the question of emancipation and it is believed to be quite certain that the President's suggestions will be adopted there, and the State speedily relieved from Slavery by peaceful measures. Senator HENDERSON and Senator BROWNING, of Illinois, are largely contributing to this result by personal efforts among the people.

THE COLONIZATION SCHEME.

The obstacles to Senator POMEROY'S colonization enterprize seem gradually being removed, though it is doubtful whether an expedition can be made ready to sail this Fall, and return in season for the Senator's Congressional duties. His preparations are all made, and he only awaits the removal of diplomatic difficulties interposed. It is understood that the Government will base no action upon a claim set up by a prominent New-York operator to a tract of land in Chiriqui and will scrupulously respect the feelings and rights of all Central American Governments.

THE LOSSES AT PERRYVILLE.

Gen. BUELL has telegraphed to Surgeon-Gen. HAMMOND that the whole number of wounded at the late battle at Perryville was about 2,300.

PANIC IN FREDERICKSBURGH.

Refugees from Fredericksburgh, Va., state that the contents of most of the stores in the place were packed up last week and sent to the dépôt, in readiness for transportation to Richmond, in view of a rumored advance of the National troops upon that place. The stores were seized by order of the Jeff. Davis Government. Our informant, who is a Union man, had sixty-five barrels of flour stolen from him by the rebel emissaries. Great trepidation exists among the rebels in Fredericksburgh, lest the Union troops should again occupy the place. Our informant says that not less than one hundred thousand pairs of boots and shoes were smuggled to Richmond for the use of the rebel army by persons representing themselves to be Union men during the period that our troops had possession of Fredericksburgh. Rebel emissaries were constantly engaged in buying all the boots and shoes they could get, from sutlers and merchants establishing themselves in Fredericksburgh. It is said the rebel Government has procured enough boots and shoes from this and other contraband sources to shoe their whole army for the coming Winter.

DESERTION OF REBEL CONSCRIPTS.

A number of rebel conscripts confined in the jail at Fredericksburgh, broke from thence one night this week, and many of them succeeded in effecting their escape—some to this city. All of them were Union men, and were placed in confinement because they manifested unwillingness, and protested against being forced into the rebel service. Several of them are reported to have been killed by a rebel cavalry force sent in pursuit. Most of them, however, it is believed, succeeded in making good their escape, though a few are still known to be in Prince William and Fairfax Counties, on their way to Washington.

GEN. ROSECRANS.

Friends of Gen. ROSECRANS assert that if he had not been recalled by Gen. GRANT from his pursuit of the forces of PRICE, VAN DORN, and LOVELL, he was in position to have utterly annihilated the rebel forces in the Southwest. They do not blame Gen. GRANT, how-over, believing that he had information, and was acting on a plan sufficient to justify his foregoing any minor advantage in view of more important successes to be obtained otherwise.

GEN. WOOL.

From statements of officers here as witnesses before the Military Commission, it appears that Gen. Wool was urgently advised by the War Department to abandon Harper's Ferry and concentrate all his forces on the Maryland Heights more than ten days before Harper's Ferry had been invested—Maryland Heights completely commanding Harper's Ferry and being a thoroughly defensible point, which the latter was not. Gen. Wool, however, took the responsibility of believing that the Ferry would not be attacked, and so disregarded the advice.

TESTIMONIALS TO GEN. PRENTISS.

Gen. B. M. PRENTISS was presented, on Saturday, with three handsome testimonials from officers of regiments under his command, (captured at Shiloh.)

The first was a magnificent gold mounted sword, upon which is the following inscription: "Presented to Gen. B. M. PRENTISS by the officers of the Twenty-third Missouri Volunteers, for gallant services rendered at the battle of Shiloh, April 6, 1862."

The second testimonial is a beautiful gold-headed cane, "presented to Gen. B. M. PRENTISS by the officers of the Eighth Iowa Infantry."

The third gift consists of a magnificent solid silver pitcher, richly elaborated with military designs, "presented to Gen. B. M. PRENTISS by the officers of the Eighteenth Missouri Volunteers, who were taken prisoners with him at Shiloh, April 6, 1862."

GEN. KEARNY'S LETTER.

The strictures of Gen. KEARNY, in his lately-published letter, upon the General officers of the Army of the Potomac, have developed the existence of other letters, in which different opinions are expressed. In one, addressed to Gen. HEINTZELMAN, he professes the highest respect for that officer's abilities and character. But it is not known that any recent letter exists in which he takes a favorable view of the military talents of Gen. MCCLELLAN, in whom he would seem for a long time to have lacked confidence.

GEN. SIGEL IN GOOD HEALTH.

The statement of one of your cotemporaries that Gen. SIGEL is in bad health, is pronounced untrue by a member of that officer's Staff. The General's physical condition is as good as usual.

PUBLIC FEELING IN WASHINGTON.

The anxiety prevailing in official circles is intense. All who are in the least behind the scenes, know clearly enough that matters cannot long continue in their present shape. The constituted authorities must either surrender or enforce their orders. The air is densely charged with rumors; and each journalist here is a sort of lightning-conductor toward which all the sparks of intelligence and guess-work converge. It is believed that we shall have a thunder-storm before many days—or, at least, one vivid and powerful flash—which, striking a lofty peak, will illuminate many dark spots in our recent history, and do much to give us a healthier, more elastic and less oppressive atmosphere. "Things cannot go on as they are," is everywhere the cry. "The country cannot stand it—cost what it may, the matter must be settled at once." These are the perplexed utterances which we now hear on all sides, each speaker seeming to find relief in the knowledge that our entanglements have reached a crisis which must be decisively and promptly met.

DESERTIONS FROM THE ARMY.

No urgency of entreaty and no severity of experience seems able to impress upon our President the absolute necessity of adopting the severest measures of military law to suppress the crime of desertion—now modified in official parlance into the peccadillo of "straggling." From the fatal desire of securing popularity among their commands, many of our Generals have been in the habit of utterly neglecting to enforce the fiercely-worded "orders" which have from time to time been issued on this subject. In every one of our recent battles, full a fourth, and many say full a third of the men brought on the field, fell out of ranks, and slunk away to the rear before the work of war had grown warm, and not an officer in our army has yet taken the responsibility of shooting down these "stragglers" in the act. In the rebel army this is not so. Every man brought on the field upon their side understands that certain and instant death, and certain dishonor, lie to the rear; while forward, there is a certainty of honor and the usual chances of escaping unhurt. As to the straggling which takes place from regiments in camp and on the march, the statistics would terrify and astound the country, if printed. Thousands upon thousands of furloughs are also given, even while in face of the enemy,—as many as thirty-four thousand men it is said, having at one time been "absent with leave" from the Peninsula, in addition to all the stragglers reported as "absent without leave." All these irregularities are offshoots of the desire on the part of certain Generals to secure the personal affections and personal adhesion of their commands, the interests of the public service being made secondary and subordinate. Cannot the President realize that mercy to the cowards and idlers who disgrace our service is the worst cruelty and injustice to the gallant fellows who remain and do their duty? In the British and French services, mounted non-commissioned officers are stationed in the rear of every line of battle, of march to meet the enemy, with instructions to shoot down instantly all men who break ranks without authority or justifying cause.

DESERTERS.

Orders have been issued by the War Department, that no more deserters be sent to the convalescent camp at Alexandria.

PIRACY ON THE POTOMAC.

The burning of a schooner on the Lower Potomac, lately announced, with the destruction, as it was supposed, of all on board, proves to have been an act of rebel piracy. She was seized by them in the night, while at anchor in the stream, the crew made prisoners and the vessel fired. The occurrence took place opposite St. George's County, Maryland, and near Mathias Point, where the channel runs close along the Virginia shore. Scouting parties visit this vicinity frequently, on the watch for fresh enterprises of the same sort. The river there should be patrolled by an armed steamer.

SMUGGLERS CAPTURED.

Several traders in contraband goods were captured on Thursday, while endeavoring to cross the Lower Potomac with a boat-load of such merchandise as is most necessary but least plentiful in the rebellious States.

LEON E. GOLDSMITH was yesterday arrested for attempting to take goods and letters South, by the Potomac flotilla, and sent by Major DOSTER, the Provost-Marshal, to the old Capitol Prison.

SUBSTITUTES IN DEMAND IN MARYLAND.

Substitutes are beginning to command a handsome premium in Prince George's and Montgomery Counties, Maryland. A gentleman from the former county was in Washington, on Saturday, offering as high as $350 for persons willing to become substitutes for several wealthy Secessionists who have been drafted there. As a matter of course, recruiting for the District regiments here is anything but brisk, while rebels offer such bounties.

THE DRAFT IN LOWER MARYLAND.

The enrolling officers in Prince George's County, Lower Maryland, could find within its limits only 828 male persons between the ages of 18 and 45. The quota of the county is 525 under the draft; and this number were duly mustered into the National service on Wednesday last, at Lower Marlboro. Most of the wealthy Secessionists are provided with certificates of disability from the Examining Surgeon, Dr. DUVALL.

Prince George's County polled over 1,500 votes at the last Presidential election.

DEATH OF AN ORIGINAL VIRGINIA REBEL.

Maj. Moss, Clerk of Fairfax County, Va., died at Richmond on the 9th inst. He will be remembered as a leading conspirator against the Government in the early days of rebellion in that section, and kept the records of the new County Court established after the secession of Virginia from the Union.

ORDER RELATING TO FURLOUGHS.

HEADQUARTERS DEFENCES OF WASHINGTON, Oct. 18, 1862.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 6.—1. Paragraph three of General Orders No. Five, (5,) current series from these headquarters, so far as relates to furloughs on account of wounds, is intended to apply only to cases of wounds received in action.

2. A surgeon giving a certificate of disability for leave or furlough on account of wounds, will explicitly state therein the nature of the wound, when and in what engagement it was received, and the time that (in his opinion) must elapse ere the disability will be removed, and also the place at which the applicant will be found during his furlough.

3. Certificates of disability for leave or furlough will not be given when there is good reason to believe the applicant will be fit for duty in a less period than thirty (30) days.

4. At the expiration of his furlough the soldier will report in person to the Surgeon in charge of the hospital whence he was furloughed.

5. Paragraph five of General Orders No. 5, current series, is so far modified as to admit the granting of furloughs for sixty (60) days in extreme cases.

By command of Major-Gen. BANKS.

RICHARD B. IRWIN, Captain, A. D. C., Acting-Assistant Adjutant-General.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL REPAIRED.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal is again in navigable condition through to Cumberland. All the breaks and damages caused by the rebel invasion have been repaired, and boats laden with coal and produce are now arriving in Georgetown. The damage done by the rebels is estimated at $50,000.

TRADE BETWEEN BALTIMORE AND RICHMOND.

A negro, recently escaped from Fredericksburgh, Va., states that large quantities of contraband goods constantly arrive there, via the Aquia Creek Railroad. He lately saw about thirty boxes of boots and shoes which had been smuggled across the Potomac, near the Aquia Creek landing, and were forwarded to Richmond the day after they reached Fredericksburgh. The only forces now in that town are four or five companies of cavalry.

A FURTHER EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

Adjt.-Gen. THOMAS, accompanied by Mr. RANDOLPH, of Philadelphia, who has been appointed by the Secretary of War a Commissioner for that purpose, will leave immediately for Aiken's Landing, to make arrangements for a further exchange of prisoners.

IMPORTANT DISPATCHES.

JOHN HAY, Private Secretary of the President, today left for the West, on business connected with the War Department, bearing important dispatches from the Secretary of War.

REBEL MOVEMENTS.

A force of three thousand rebels came as far as Snickersville on the 13th inst., to protect the crossing of STUART'S Cavalry over the Potomac on his return. On the 14th the whole force recrossed the Shenandoah, going south.

CARRYING NEGROES SOUTH.

A refugee from the vicinity of Leesburgh states that a rebel cavalry force appeared in that place on Monday last and forcibly carried South all the negroes who had previously been collected together there, and placed in confinement, by order of Gen. LEE.

POSTAL CURRENCY.

The demand for postal currency in no wise diminishes, and the supply continues to be inadequate. Fifty thousand dollars' worth of the notes were sent to New-York on Thursday, and no more will be received in this City until Wednesday next.

SOLDIER SHOT BY A WOMAN.

JAMES MCCLELLAN, a private in the Eighty-eighth Regiment New-York Volunteers, was on Sunday night shot through the heart by a drunken prostitute at the Jenny Lind House. The inmates were at once arrested by the Provost-Marshal, and will be punished to the full extent of the law.

RETURN OF SECRETARY SMITH.

Secretary SMITH returned on Saturday from his trip to Indiana, and was to-day transacting the usual business of his Department.

COMMODORE NUTT AT A CABINET MEETING.

It is understood that Commodore NUTT visited the White House on Friday last, with Mr. BARNUM, and was received by the President and Cabinet at a regular meeting, and with distinguished honors. The President gracefully introduced him to the different heads of Departments, with a brief description of their several duties; after which the Commodore was dismissed with appropriate souvenirs from several of the party.

MILITARY ITEMS.

The troops on this side of the river were reviewed on Saturday afternoon on East Capitol Hill by Gens. BANKS and CASEY. They presented a magnificent appearance, going through the various evolutions of brigade drill with the precision of veterans.

Gen. VAN ALLEN, TOWNSEND HARRIS, late Minister to Japan, Gen. ASBOTH, and Gen. FITZ JOHN PORTER and staff are in the City.

Gen. CANBY, of New-Mexico, is en route for Washington, having left Santa Fé on the 21st of September.

ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATOR IN OHIO.

Those who apprehend that the late Democratic victory in Ohio will secure the election of a United States Senator from the same party, to occupy the seat of bluff old BEN. WADE, will be relieved on learning that the Legislature which has this duty to perform, was chosen last year.

HORSES AND MULES WANTED.

The use for mules in the army is so great as to be with difficulty supplied. Col. RUCKER advertises for two thousand, to be delivered here within twenty days.

Proposals are also invited for three thousand artillery and cavalry horses, the time for their delivery being also limited to twenty days.

PROPOSALS FOR STOVES.

Capt. HARTZE, Assistant Quartermaster, has invited proposals for furnishing the Government with one hundred large cylinder coal stoves—intended, probably for use in the hospitals.

MUSKETS RECOVERED.

A great number of muskets have been recovered by the Provost Guard from various places in Washington.

TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Oct. 20.

TAX DECISIONS AND REGULATIONS.

The following decisions have been made by the Commissioner of Internal revenue:

The phrase "kept for use," employed in reference to silver plate, is construed to except silver plate or ware kept for sale, and also that which is in possession of a family or its members as souvenirs or keepsakes. The plate properly taxable is that which has been purchased for the use of the family, or has been presented to the family as part of the household furniture, and as such is kept for use, whether for ornament or actual service. In the execution of the law assessors are directed to allow owners of silverware to have the same weighed, and to make a report thereof.

A stamp will be required upon every certificate which has or may have a legal value in any court of law or equity.

When a manufacturer has new goods on hand at the place of manufacture, but has not taken out a license, nor kept his mill in operation since September 1, such goods are subject to duty whenever sold or removed from the place of manufacture.

In stamping promissory notes or other instruments requiring stamps under the provisions of the Excise law, stamps of a smaller amount in numbers sufficient to amount to the sum of the stamp required can be used, provided they are of the kind denominated for the particular instruments drawn.

The following decisions concern the liability of iron castings to taxation:

First—All castings which are so well and generally known as to have a commercial value, must be taxed as manufactures, when sold or removed from the manufactory.

Second—Other castings, made upon speculation of a machinist, but which are not known to the trade as manufactures in themselves, and are designed for articles subject to taxation in an advanced state, are exempt, not being manufactures in the contemplation of the law. It may be difficult to draw the line. The Assessors or Assistant Assessors' best judgment will be required. As an example, car wheels belong to the first class.

The following regulations have been issued in regard to the tax upon manufactures produced since Aug. 31, and delivered under contract of sale made prior to the 1st of July last:

First—The manufacturer will pay the duty upon such goods without regard to the fact of such contract.

Second—The manufacturer will be authorized to collect of the purchaser the amount of the taxes so paid, whenever satisfactory proof shall be furnished to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that the contract was made prior to the 1st day of July last, and in good faith between the parties and toward the Government, and that the taxes properly assessed upon such goods or manufactures have been actually paid by the seller.

REBELS IN THE OLD CAPITOL PRISON.

A number of prisoners have been sent hither recently by Gens. STONEMAN and SIGEL, who, together with persons arrested for violating the blockade of the Potomac River, are now confined in the Old Capitol Prison.

SECESSIONISTS EMIGRATING SOUTH.

There seems to be no difficulty in emigrating to the South. About twenty Secessionists left Washington and the neighborhood lately for the eastern shore of Maryland, where they safely crossed into Virginia.

UNION MEETING IN SYRACUSE.

Speeches by Col. Hamilton, of Texas, and Hon. Henry J. Raymond.

SYRACUSE, Monday, Oct. 20.

Wieting Hall was crowded to overflowing this evening, on the occasion of addresses by Hon. ANDREW JACKSON HAMILTON, of Texas, and Hon. HENRY J. RAYMOND. Mayor ANDREWS presided, and introduced the speakers.

Mr. HAMILTON gave a thrilling narrative of his experience at the South—his knowledge of the purpose of the rebels to strike a fatal blow at free government, and of his convictions as to the only means of ending the rebellion. His conclusion that we must fight it out, give up all hope of compromise, and rebuke the traitors at the North, was received with great favor. He avowed himself in favor of the President's proclamation, and said he was in favor of the Union before Slavery.

Mr. RAYMOND likewise made a telling speech, criticising the published addresses of Mr. SEYMOUR, and showing that the whole tenor of the partisan movement in this State is calculated to give aid and comfort to the enemy, unless the people shall at the ballot-box administer to it a signal defeat. He urged that we should conquer the rebels first, and settle minor difficulties afterwards; and that unless the loyal North puts its whole power into the work of conquering the rebels now, there can be but little hope for the perpetuity of free Government on this Continent.

The speeches and speakers were received with great favor, by one of the finest audiences ever assembled in this city.

Mr. RAYMOND speaks at Watertown to-morrow.

Amusements.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—The first new comedy of the season was produced at Wallack's last evening, before one of the most brilliant and crowded audiences that the theatre could comfortably hold. It—the comedy—is an English adaptation from the French, by Mr. WIGAN, and is called—as altered to suit the New-York public by Mr. LESTER WALLACK—"Bosom Friends." The bosom friends are certain acquaintances of a Mr. Union (Mr. LESTER WALLACK,) who variously sponge upon him, trifle with his wife, and in every other possible way contrive to impose on his generous and unsuspicious nature. Mrs. Union (Mrs. HOEY) is not allowed by the dramatist to seriously commit herself, and the good-natured victim is finally released from the attentions of his unprofitable associates without incurring the disagreeable necessity of quarreling with them to find them out. The only important discovery he makes is that of the actual sincerity of the only of them all about whom he previously had doubts—a Dr. Bland (Mr. C. FISHER)—who is subsequently supposed to marry his—Mr. Union's—daughter, Amy, (Miss HENRIQUES.) So slight a sketch of the plot gives very little idea of the piece, which is, in fact, one of the most ingeniously constructed comedies of the improbable kind that has ever been played in the City. It reminds one considerably of a piece called "A Man of Many Friends," brought out several years ago at Mr. WALLACK'S former theatre; but, though it may be taken from the same French original, it is a far more elaborate and meritorious appropriation.

Of course, it is played, in all its parts, with that near approach to perfection which is attainable only under Mr. WALLACK'S skillful management. Mr. Union is an embodiment of the peculiar species of eccentric humor, dashed with a touch or two of pathos, which Mr. WALLACK can interpret so far better than any actor on the stage as to be beyond the reach of criticism or comparison. The character is unnatural to a degree—a mere fantastic creation of a Parisian playwright's brain—but the amusing points of it are so delicately finished, and are presented by the performer with so much keenness of perception, as to almost make it seem like a reality. Mrs. HOEY, as Mrs. Union, looks charming as usual, but the part is not one of which much can be legitimately made. Mr. C. FISHER, Miss HENRIQUES, Mr. JOHN GILBERT, (especially good in a selfish old gentleman who believes himself to be the soul of generosity,) Mrs. VERNON, Mr. YOUNG, Mr. REYNOLDS, Mr. NORTON and Miss REEVES, severally sustain their share of the distribution with ability and conscientiousness.

Justice to a Gallant Officer.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The announcement in your paper to-day of the dismissal of Capt. JOSEPH HENRIQUES from the service, for absence without leave since the commencement of the battle of Antietam, does great injustice to a deserving officer. He was present at the battle, and by a reference to your list of wounded you will find his name. He left the field but a short time before his regiment was withdrawn, bleeding and fatigued, obtained a furlough from the War Department, and since then has been honorably discharged for physical prostration, produced by the fatigues of the campaign, in which he has served for eighteen months.

Yours respectfully. ALEX. HENRIQUES.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 20, 1862.

Wants of the Sanitary Commission.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 17, 1862.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Have the goodness to announce, that in meeting the wants of the wounded of the recent series of battles, the reserve stock of the Sanitary Commission was quite exhausted of all most needed articles, and hat the daily receipts since have scarcely more than enabled it to meet the most pressing continuous demands. There are now no socks, stockings or quilts in the stores of the Commission. These wants call especially for the personal labor of women. The Commission's stock of the following articles of domestic use and consumption is also quite exhausted:

Woolen shirts,	Pillow ticks,
Woolen drawers,	Slippers,
Canton flannel drawers,	Farinaceous food,
Blankets,	Brandy,
Bed ticks.	Imported wines.

In addition to containing the latest intelligence by telegraph up to the moment of going to press, there will be found in the current number full details of all military movements in the different departments from the pens of our special correspondents. The Movements in State Politics, with the Election returns from all the States so far as received will be found in this morning's issue. The Sixth of Mr. HURLBERT'S Series of Letters appears in the current number. All official orders, reports and documents, and the latest and fullest Washington news, will be found in the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES. European news, with graphic letters from our correspondents in London and Paris, is made a special and permanent feature. In addition to Editorials on all the current topics of the day, the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES has a page of carefully prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports; items of agricultural and domestic interest, compiled from sources many of which are otherwise inaccessible to the American reader; and marriages and deaths of the week.

The "SEMI-WEEKLY RECORD," or news summary—being a careful synopsis and digest of the news of the day both rebellion and general—is alone worth double the subscription price to the paper, as it preserves in a condensed and conveniently classified form all news of interest, and must prove valuable as a record to all time.

Martin Luther once thought he saw the devil in his chamber, and threw an inkstand at his head. Had they had in those days AYER'S PILLS to exorcise all the devils that come from a disordered stomach, his laughable fright would not have become a matter of history.

A "HERRING'S CHAMPION" HEARD FROM!

SYRACUSE, Oct. 8, 1862.

Messrs. D. S. & S. P. GERE, Agents for Herring & Co.'s Safes:

GENTLEMEN: We had in our office one of Herring's Patent Safes at the destruction of the Bastable Arcade by fire, on the 6th inst. It was in that building, and passed through all the fire, not being removed until the morning after, when it was found among the ruins in the cellar. On being opened, the contents, consisting of books and valuable papers, were found in a good state of preservation and without material injury. We are satisfied from the test to which our safe was put, that Herring & Co.'s Safes are preferable to all others for their quality of resistance to the action of fire.

Yours, &c.,

The present number completes the twenty-fifth volume of HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE. The Publishers believe that it is in every respect equal to any volume which has preceded it.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE furnishes a greater amount of matter, in a more pleasing form, and more profusely illustrated, than any other similar periodical. The illustrations alone cost more than any other magazine expends for literary and artistic matter. It soon secured, and has ever retained a greater circulation than any other periodical of its class. The Publishers are warranted, by the arrangements into which they have already entered, in assuring the public that the ensuing volume will be in every respect equal to any which has heretofore appeared.

The papers of permanent value which have been published in almost every Number render a complete set of HARPER'S MAGAZINE a desirable acquisition to any public or private library. The Publishers can supply complete sets, or any Number from the commencement. For Twenty-five Cents they will send any Number by mail, post-paid. TO BOOKSELLERS AND BOOK-READERS.

THE PUBLISHER OF "LES MISERABLES" regrets being obliged to announce that he has just discovered that a spurious cloth edition of the book has been produced by another party, by binding the thin paper cover edition in cloth covers, in imitation of CARLETON'S binding, and foisting it off upon the public as CARLETON'S cloth edition.

The paper for the genuine cloth edition costs ninety per cent. more than the paper of the paper cover edition, and the genuine book is nearly twice as thick and handsome as the spurious.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient, who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 16 three-cent stamps, 200 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

The Draft.

We are not informed in any order from Gen. ANTHON as to his intentions regarding the observance of the provisions established by the General Government for the protection of exempts. If we read those provisions rightly, it is expressly stated that a specified period is allowed all drafted persons who claim exemption from draft in which to establish their exemption, while Gen. ANTHON gives the public to understand that claims must be put in before the day of draft.

However this may be—whether the provision referred to is to be regarded, or whether it is to be absolutely and arbitrarily set aside—Gen. ANTHON has commenced his work in earnest. The noble army of copyists, clerks and scribes having finished their labors, and presented Gen. ANTHON with a token of their esteem, and been reappointed to new and responsible positions, the lists have been placed in a safe place, and all is ready.

Gen. ANTHON has issued various and lengthy orders concerning the Commissioners, the Surgeons and the Clerks, and their duties, of which we reproduce the most important.

After a long and detailed statement of the duties of the Commissioners, we find the following

The following persons are exempt under the law of the United States:

All persons now in the military service of the United States, all telegraph operators and constructors, actually engaged on the 5th day of August, 1862, all engineers of locomotives on railroads, all artificers and workmen employed in any public arsenal or armory, the Vice-President of the United States, the officers judicial and executive of the Government of the United States, the members of both Houses of Congress and their respective officers, all Custom-house officers and their clerks, all post officers and stage drivers who are employed in the care and conveyance of the mail of the Post-office of the United States, all ferrymen who are employed at any ferry on the post road, all pilots, all mariners actually employed in the sea-service of any citizen or merchant within the United States, all engineers and pilots of registered or licensed steamboats and steamships, and all persons exempted by the laws of the several States.

The following persons are exempt under the laws of the State of New-York:

I. The Lieutenant-Governor, Members and Officers of the Legislature, the Secretary of State, Attorney-General, Comptroller, State Engineer and Surveyor, State Treasurer and Clerks, and employes in the several offices, the Judicial officers of this State, including Justices of the Peace, Sheriffs, Coroners and Constables.

II. All persons in the Army or Navy, or Volunteer force of the United States, and the present officers and members of the organized Militia of this State who are liable to be specially drafted into the service, with their respective organizations.

III. All persons who have been or hereafter shall be regularly and honorably discharged from the regular or volunteer army or navy of the United States, in consequence of the performance of military duty therein.

IV. Ministers and preachers of the gospel.

V. Persons being of the people called Shakers or Quakers, professors, teachers and students in all colleges and public academies, (as distinguished from private schools,) and in all common schools.

VI. Commissioned officers, who shall have served as such in the militia of this State, or in any of the States for the period fixed by existing laws, and whose resignation has been duly accepted, or who have been in some other lawful manner honestly discharged from such service and duty.

VII. All idiots and lunatics, and persons convicted of infamous crimes.

VIII. All habitual drunkards and paupers, who have been declared such by proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction.

X. The Commissioners, Surgeons, and Clerks engaged in making the draft are also exempt, from the nature of their employment.

XI. The Commissioners will mark the word "Fireman" opposite the name of each man proved to be such, if an entry to that effect be not already made.

XII. The duties of all the officers connected with the draft are at once delicate and important, and it is proper that they should be exercised not only with justice and fairness, but also with kindness and consideration. Doubtless on many occasions the patience of Commissioners, Surgeons and Clerks will be severely tried, but the Chief Commissioner trusts that all will remember that a draft, however readily it may be responded to by a generous and patriotic people, inevitably produces some cases of individual hardship, which should be treated with the utmost forbearance.

By order of
WM. HENRY ANTHON,
Judge Advocate General, Chief Commissioner of Drafting.

Then comes the following for the guidance of the Surgeons, the details of which will be found interesting:

STATE OF NEW-YORK,
SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE.

SIR: The duty to which you are assigned is delicate and peculiar.

In the ordinary examination of recruits seeking service, the Surgeon is expected to detect physical imperfections, which the person strives to conceal, or at least as far as possible cause to appear trivial and indifferent.

With those presenting themselves to you an opposite condition exists; it is for exemption from military service.

They will present, in the most glaring characters, every physical infirmity, or the myriad types of functional disorder, strongly impressed on the mind of the individual as full cause for exemption.

It will also be necessary, in arriving at an intelligent judgment, to consider the difference, in social condition, of the two classes. Thus far a great proportion of the recruits have been from among the working classes; men, who, by daily manual toil, are seldom affected with functional disorders, and in examining whom the surgeon looks principally for physical imperfections.

The most limited experience must have noticed, that in this country, so intense is the application to mere business, whether of the commercial or professional man, that vital relations and laws are wholly lost sight of, and very few present themselves engaged in such pursuits, who have not some functional disturbance which must at times incapacitate them for the pursuit of ordinary duties. Herein will lie your great difficulty.

The necessity of judging impartially, and giving to these ailments their due consideration, will exclude some, whom the non-professional may not deem exempt, and pass others with apparently more serious complications.

It would be impossible to enumerate the different phases of disease, which become causes of exemption; it will be sufficient to indicate some general principle, to which, as far as possible, the peculiarities of individual cases must apply.

Functional disorders will therefore be regarded as a cause of disability only when existing in an acute stage, or when the disability arising therefrom is such as incapacitates the individual from pursuing his daily avocations, or when a moderate amount of physical labor renders further effort injurious.

Vague as this instruction may appear, it is as specific, taken in connection with the preceding remark, as seems justifiable.

To your judgment in each case is confided the application of the principle.

Certificates of disability granted by other surgeons are entitled to consideration only so far as they may aid in arriving at an intelligent judgment, or as bearing upon the history of a malady.

In determining disability from physical causes, you will be governed by the following rules:

1st. The individual is to be stripped naked, and the condition of all the joints to be noted; see that hearing, vision and speech are perfect; also that there is no wound of the head to impair the faculties or cause convulsions.

2d. Whether there is any evidence of pulmonary disease.

3d. Any disease of the heart.

4th. Hernia, chronic difficulty of the bowels, no fistula or troublesome piles, large or painful varicole, or varicose veins, which extend above the knee, or present traces of ulceration.

5th. The following also are disqualifications: The loss of either phalanx of the thumb or forefinger of the right hand; the loss of any two fingers on either hand; the loss of the great toe; also, chancre, or marked constitutional syphilis.

6th. Any other marked physical imperfection which would unfit for active service.

The following extract from General Order No. 99, from the War Department, will also govern your action:

"Exemption will not be made for disability unless it be of such permanent character as to render the person unfit for service for a period of more than 30 days, to be certified by a surgeon appointed by the Governor in each county for this purpose."

You will keep a record of the name of each individual recommended to the Commissioner for exemption, and concisely the reason therefor. At the close of your labors this record will be transmitted to this office.

You will make requisition upon the Commissioner for the necessary blank-book and writing material as well as clerical assistance.

You are strictly prohibited from receiving remuneration, directly or indirectly, from persons claiming exemption.

Respectfully yours,
F. OAKLEY VANDERPOEL,
Surgeon-General.

Yesterday was the first day on which claims for exemption were heard. There were comparatively but few in any Ward who appeared—not more than a thousand in the entire City. Everything was done quietly and passed off pleasantly.

Death of Dr. John C. Cheesman.

A great and useful man has passed away from this earth, and though the smoke of mighty conflicts and the fall of heroes on the battle-field is apt to make us lose sight of quieter lives and deaths, yet the subject of this notice has been too long and too well known to pass away unremembered.

On Friday, the 10th inst., Dr. JOHN C. CHEESMAN, of this City, died suddenly, of apoplexy. Fifty years of successful practice in surgery and medicine had built him up to be a great power over the pulse and health of this Metropolis.

As a surgical operator he had no superior in this country.

He sustained a uniform elevation of distinction for the skill and daring with which he handled the most dangerous and desperate cases. Besides an immense regular practice, almost every passing accident of former years in this City, looked to that ready hand for comfort and relief.

The history of the New-York Hospital for the last forty years is the history of the benevolence, the skill and the triumph of JOHN C. CHEESMAN in the treatment of almost every ailment that can afflict the human body.

When such a man dies a great light vanishes from the bedside of disease and suffering. Little has been said of the event, and yet hundreds of valuable citizens who felt that his long experience, clear head and steady hand made their own stay a little more sure, now tremble at the thought of so much rare judgment and professional skill being withdrawn from the public safety.

Dr. CHEESMAN, though not a great man intellectually, possessed those characteristics without which genius utterly fails of success. He had earnestness and unity of purpose; he was intensely definite and practical, and he evolved theories for his guidance less from books than besides. His strong sense and keen observation made himself reliant and original in practice, without the ambition of innovating upon established rules or experimenting upon critical subjects. Gentle and hopeful to the invalid, with the Faculty he was rigid, tenacious and honorable in the terms of professional intercourse.

He loved his country with a genuine enthusiasm, that hurried on his only son with the first City regiment which marched for the safety of the National Capital.

Reared in the Society of Friends, his practical sense convinced him that creeds were less important than a good conscience, and though he left the strait sect he kept on in the straight path that has led him up to honor, fame, and fortune.

His personal appearance contributed greatly to his success, because a genial smile and a handsome figure will help any medicine.

No doctor of seventy-sixty ever went to his grave with more of woman's tears rained upon his dust. His death was as honorable and peaceful as his life had been earnest and useful.

City Mortality.

The City Inspector reports that 353 persons died in New-York last week—82 men, 66 women, 105 boys and 100 girls—a decrease of 33 from the mortality of the previous week, and the same decrease as compared with the mortality of the corresponding week of 1861. Of the deceased 186 were children under five years of age. The mortality by the principal diseases was as follows: Consumption, 58; infantile marasmus, 29; croup, 20; diarrhœa, 15; whooping cough, 11; dropsy, 7; scarlet fever, 7; typhoid, 4. Deaths from external causes, 34; among which are reported 4 premature births, 6 deaths from old age, 4 drowned, 1 murdered, 8 killed by accident. There were 35 interments in Potter's Field, and 41 deaths in the Institutions.

The following is a schedule of the work of the Bureau of Sanitary Inspection, in the abatement of nuisances, &c., for the week ending Oct. 18, 1862:

The Gas Question.

AN OPINION FROM THE CORPORATION COUNSEL.

The Special Committee of the Board of Aldermen, having under consideration the question of the Corporate authorities superseding the present Gas Companies, met again yesterday, when the following opinion was read and an adjournment made till 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon:

CITY OF NEW-YORK—LAW DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION,
Oct. 16, 1862.

To the Board of Aldermen:

In answer to a resolution of your Special Committee on Gas-light Companies, received yesterday, I have to state that the New-York Gas-light Company was incorporated by the Legislature in 1823, (stat. 1823, p. 99,) and its charter has been twice amended, (stat. 1837, p. 332, and 1855, p. 776.) The Manhattan Gas-light Company was incorporated in 1830, (stat. 1830, p. 65,) and its charter has been three times amended, (stat. 1847, p. 156; 1852, p. 105, and 1855, p. 1,038.) I notice nothing in either of the charters materially affecting the questions submitted.

The New-York Company made a contract with the Corporation in 1823, which expired by its own limitation of the City, on the 12th of May, 1853, (vol. ord., p. 566,) and I am not aware that any other contract has been made between the company and the corporation of the City. The real estate of the works constructed for the manufacture of gas still belong to the Company, and can only be acquired by purchase. I find no provision for acquiring the property in any other way.

The Manhattanville Company made a contract with the City Corporation in 1833, which expired by its own limitation on the 12th of May, 1853. (Vol. ord. p. 569.) The Company made another contract with the City Corporation in 1848, which will expire on the 5th day of May, 1868. (Vol. ord. p. 573.) So far as I am informed this contract still remains in full force; but by its terms it may be annulled by the Common Council in case of a breach of conditions on the part of the Company. Whether terminated in that way, or by the lapse of time, the real estate of the Company, and the works which have been constructed for the manufacture of gas, will still belong to the Company. If the Corporation wishes to obtain the property, it may be acquired by mutual agreement between the parties; in other words, by purchase. I find no provision for acquiring the title in any other way.

Respectfully submitted,
GREENE C. BRONSON.

More New Vessels of War.

Yesterday, at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, the keel of a new steamer-of-war was laid "in the open air," beside the side-wheel steamer Mackinaw, already some weeks in course of construction, all the ship-houses being occupied with other National ships.' The new craft is to be a propeller. She will be 170 feet long, 28 feet wide, and 12 feet deep, 593 tons burden, and be pierced for four guns. Her name will be Maumee. No pains will be spared to make her a superior vessel. In the ship-house from which the Ticonderoga was recently launched, preparations are making for commencing work on the new iron-clad steam sloop-of-war or frigate Miantonomoh. She will be about 240 feet long and nearly 1,600 tons burden. Her battery will consist of four tremendous pieces of ordnance. The sister ship of the Miantonomoh will be commenced at Philadelphia in a few days. She, too, will be built outside of a ship-house. She will be 1,564 tons burden, and carry four guns. Her name will be Tonawanda. The Navy Department has given the building of these ships to its own constructors, the machinery and armor being all that will probably be got up by private parties. They will not, therefore, be "militia craft."

LOCAL POLITICS.

A Meeting for the Union.

There are at present in this City some five or six gentlemen, from as many States now in rebellion against the Government, who are perfecting arrangements to hold a meeting of all Union-loving citizens, either at the end of this or the beginning of next week, at which they propose to give their views in relation to the conduct of the war. Gen. PRENTISS will probably be present, and Col. HAMILTON will certainly be. These gentlemen are all expatriated citizens, and may be understood to know whereof they affirm.

Meeting in the Twentieth Ward—Speech of Hon. H. B. Stanton and Others.

Last evening the Union Republicans had a great time at their Club Room. They were addressed by Hon. H. B. STANTON, who, after some preliminary remarks, spoke of the recent elections. He said the results of the recent elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa are claimed to be very important in many respects. Let us examine them. First, there were no officers of importance to be chosen in either of these States, and little interest was felt in the matter, so far as that class of candidates was concerned. From the returns it is impossible to give the footings of the adverse columns; but the aggregate vote in these four States is about equally divided between the two parties. It was upon members of Congress that the chief interest centered. Now, what is the result? As compared with the present House, the Republicans have lost three members, and, of course, the Democrats have gained three. This is the result in an aggregate of sixty members. But it must be remembered that half these Democrats succeeded upon express pledges that they were "War Democrats." Many of them distinctly committed themselves to the use of all available means for crushing the rebellion promptly, without compromise.

In weighing these results, we must not overlook historical precedents. Since the accession of Mr. VAN BUREN to the Presidency, every Administration has come into power with a House of Representatives largely in its favor, while the House elected during its term has invariably been hostile to it, and several times by great majorities. Under the last six Administrations, from VAN BUREN to BUCHANAN, the Speaker chosen for the first Congress of the term was always the supporter of the President, while the Speaker chosen by the House elected during the term, was always his opponent. Thus far, then, Mr. LINCOLN has done better in the Congressional elections than any one of his predecessors for the last quarter of a century, and very much better than most of them. But, setting historical precedents aside—for, this is an unprecedented crisis in the annals of the Republic—there is another reason for the seeming untoward results of these elections. The States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa have sent to the battle-fields of the South more than three hundred thousand men. Of these, at least one hundred and fifty thousand are voters. And of these there is abundant proof, that a majority of one hundred thousand would, had they been at home, have supported the Union Republican war candidates in their elections. It is notorious that under the last two calls for volunteers, Pro-Slavery Democrats have discouraged enlistments. It is equally notorious that their followers have, as a general rule, refused to volunteer. And, from facts and statistics, it is settled that since July the enlistments have been on the average in the proportion of five or six Republicans to one Democrat. Now, this one hundred thousand majority of Union Republicans, in the four States in question, could not be fighting the rebels on the battle-fields below the Potomac and the Ohio, and at the same time be voting against their sympathizers at the ballot-boxes in the North. Had they been at home, the Union war ticket would have swept those States like a whirlwind, sending to the House full three-fourths of their members.

There are other causes no doubt for these results. I may feel it my duty to speak upon them after our own State election is over. Among these causes is the slow manner in which this war has been prosecuted. The people feel, and deeply feel, that compensation in decisive victories has not been received for their vast expenditures of money and blood during the eighteen months this war has shaken the land with its earthquake tread. Doubtless some of our reverses and our lack of successes at all commensurate with the immense array of men and munitions the Government has placed in the field, is due to the incompetency and insufficiency of commanding Generals. But it is natural that the Administration should be treated as responsible for our failures, and made to suffer accordingly. Besides this, in some of the districts in the States where we suffered most, I learn that unwise nominations were made. The people were compelled to carry candidates who were dead weights. Thus the Administration lost districts which its friends ought to have secured. The seifishness of narrow-minded, little-hearted partisans, in a dread exigency, when their country is imperiled, is amazing. Oh, that they should sacrifice it to their low ambition, and an inordinate overestimate of their capacity, and their deserts. It is believed, too, that the contest in the three great central States was made to turn too exclusively upon adherence to the distinctive name and principles of the Republicans as a party. The outspoken and uncompromising war element among the Democrats was not properly recognized, courted, and rewarded. Taking warning from the mistakes of our Western brethien, let us in New-York beware. Let us be liberal, that we may be successful. Some feeble-sighted persons, overlooking the real causes of the results mentioned, have said that they are attributable to the President's proclamation of freedom. This is an utter mistake. That sublime document has aided to save the Administration in those States. But for it, it would have been shipwrecked. Had it been issued three months earlier, the Administration would have won brilliant victories through all the West. In the Empire State it stimulates the friends of the President to unwonted exertions. Its inspiring words teach us what we are contending for, and that our struggles are not in vain. But for it, with so large a preponderance of loyal voters absent with our armies, we should be beaten by the Seymourites. This glorious document nerves us to contend manfully and hopefully against our enemies while so many of our compatriots are on the battle-fields fighting the rebels. How, then, will the results in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana affect us in New-York? Not injuriously, if we avoid the errors of our compeers. We must make inroads into the old-fashioned Democracy. This has been done in this State far more than in any other. Eminent leaders of that party, discarding its semi-treason, have combined with men of different political organizations to rescue their country from peril. The names of Dickinson, Dix, Cochrane, Tremain, Walbridge, Porter, Colvin, Johnson, Alvord, Rodgers, Ogden, Wadsworth, Stetson and their associates are towers of strength to our cause. They will aid us in achieving a new triumph. But, a word or two concerning our friends who have gone to the war. Doubtless their absence hazards our triumph. It demands greater exertions to avert defeat. But, though we regret their absence, we have rich compensation in another quarter. Though not at the hustings, they are with the army. Though not able to cast ballots at the heads of the Vallandighams, the Coxes and the Woods here, they can speed bullets at the heads of their traitor friends, the Lees, the Braggs and the Longstreets of the South. More than all, they are infusing young blood—yea, and free blood, into the army, making it the most intelligent, brave, moral and determined legion that has trodden the earth in modern times. They will emulate the immortal Ironsides of CROMWELL, who, charging to the tune of "Old Hundred," conquered the corrupt cavaliers of the Court of CHARLES. Thus our Republican Roundheads, carrying the great Proclamation of Liberty on their bayonets, will plant it upon the shores of the Gulf of Mexico ere the Spring that is coming shall melt into the tropical Summer.

"From our green mountains to the sea,
One voice shall thunder 'We are free.'"

Mr. STANTON discussed general principles at length, but we have no room for a further report. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

Twenty-first Ward Republican Meeting.

SPEECHES BY HON. JAMES WADSWORTH, JOSEPH HOXIE, PARKE GODWIN, AND J. WILSON GREENE.

A considerable concourse of the Republican and Union Party men assembled, last evening, at the rooms of the "Union Association" of the Twenty-first Ward, on the corner of Broadway and Thirty-second-street.

CHARLES GOULD, Esq., Chairman of the Association, presided, assisted by Vice-Presidents R. A. WITTHAUS and ALEXANDER P. SHARP, and RICHARD J. VANDERBURGH, Secretary.

Mr. GOULD, having opened the proceedings with some remarks pertinent to the occasion, was followed by Messrs. JOSEPH HOXIE, PARKE GODWIN, and J. WILSON GREENE, in eloquent and characteristic addresses, urging the claims of the Republican nominees, and the force of the principles they represent.

The Hon. JAMES WADSWORTH, whose coming had been eagerly looked for throughout the evening, was finally announced and received with a round of cheering.

Mr. WADSWORTH commenced his address with an impressive reference to the momentous crisis now upon the country. This terrible situation he emphatically designated "a Revolution," which those are blind who will not see. The Seymour Democracy, he declared, are groping about on the level plane of old stale ideas, feeling their feeble way along the edge of the slough of Slavery, utterly unable or unwilling to comprehend that all things are new, and the grand drama now enacting is, indeed, a mighty convulsion. For his part he would say to that Democracy, in the spirit of CROMWELL ejecting the Rump Parliament, and he would particularly direct his admonition to Mr. PETER CAGGER, who always rises at 12 o'clock to open the Democratic Conventions of this State—"Your time is over—you may go home! God is holding His Conventions this year!" (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. WADSWORTH, then, with an emphatic exposition of the intended Democratic policy of pacification, and as strenuous a denial of the possibility of any peace or compromise with the South on any less condition than the overthrow of Slavery, expressed a hope that the Republican strength might be concentrated on one of the candidates of that party in the congressional district, in glowing terms prophesied the complete triumph of the principles he had just enunciated.

I am, very respectfully,
THOS. HILLHOUSE, Adjutant-General.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

PERSONAL.—Lord ERNEST VANE TEMPEST, better known as Capt. CHARLES STEWART, will leave today en route for home. Capt. STEWART has been in the United States service since the opening of the war. When Gen. STONE was appointed to his command Capt. STEWART was made his Adjutant-General, in which capacity he discharged with credit the onerous duties assigned him. His conduct at the battle of Ball's Bluff merited and received the personal thanks of Gen. MCCLELLAN, then Commander-in-Chief. At the time of Gen. STONE'S removal, believing that officer to be unjustly dealt with, and unwilling to serve under another, he resigned his commission, and although tendered the Colonoy of one of our finest infantry regiments, declined continuing in the service.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.—A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held to-day (Tuesday,) at 1 o'clock, to consider what action, if any, shall be taken by the Chamber, in consequence of the burning at sea by the steamer Alabama of the ship Brilliant and other vessels.

CORONERS' INQUESTS.—Coroner RANNEY held an inquest yesterday upon the body of an unknown man, about 55 years of age, who was found in the water at Pier No. 32, East River. He is about 5 feet 6 inches in height, slender built, had thin gray hair, a Roman nose, and was dressed in a black frock coat, black ribbed pants, fine gray checked vest, white muslin shirt and heavy brogans. He had been in the water two or three days.... The same Coroner held an inquest upon ANDREW O. DUNN, aged 2 years, who died at No. 210 Centre-street, from injuries accidentally received by falling from a railing of the second story to the sidewalk on Saturday last.... A small boy, named JAMES MCCUE, was burned to death on Sunday night, while playing with matches at the residence of his parents, in Fifteenth-street. His father is in the army, and his mother was intoxicated at a neighbor's house.

PRIZE FIGHT.—Another of those disgusting affairs, of which, recently, we have had but few—a prize-fight—took place yesterday morning, on Long Island, between ELP WALKER and BILLY SMITH, alias "Smoothy." There was a large gathering—at least 150—of the "old sports" of the City, and the greatest interest was manifested in the result. SMITH was the favorite with odds. WALKER was the lighter man of the two, weighing about 120 pounds; SMITH rolling on to 135. Ninety rounds were fought, the time being 2 hours and 12 minutes, and SMITH came off winner. The fight was well contested; and the Police were considerate enough not to interfere, although the scene took place within the Police limits.

FIRE AT MILITARY HALL.—The building No. 193 Bowery, known as Military Hall, and occupied by CHAS. J. HARGRAVE as a ball-room, bar and drill-room, took fire about 6½ o'clock last evening, damaging the stock and furniture $2,000. The fourth floor of the building was occupied by the Alleghany Lodge, and the basement by WILLIAM WOLF, trunk manufacturer Mr. WOLF'S damage was trifling. He is insured for $800 in the Citizens' Insurance Company. The building is owned by Mr. FOELKE, and was damaged $3,000—fully insured. The fire originated in a bedroom on the fourth floor of the building.

STRIKE OF THE LONGSHOREMEN.—The Longshoremen feeling dissatisfied at the low rate of twelve shillings paid to them, struck, yesterday, on both sides of the rivers, and thus delayed the work on vessels both loading and discharging. They claim that in consequence of the daily increasing prices of food, clothing, &c., their wages hereafter should be fourteen shillings. Thus far, only a few small rows have occurred, but the police stopped them in time.

WADSWORTH MEETING.—CHARLES B. SEDGWICK, member of Congress from the Onondaga district, will speak to-night at the Republican Central Committee Rooms, at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third street, at the Wadsworth ratification meeting. Loyal men and women desirous to hear an eloquent champion of Freedom and the Union will find this a rare opportunity.

NOTICE TO ENGINEERS.—A Board of Naval Engineers has assembled at the Brooklyn Navy-yard to examine candidates for promotion in and admission to the W. I. Naval Corps of Engineers. In a few days, they will probably be prepared to accept applicants without the permission of Secretary WELLES. Naval Engineers are booked on the list of permanent naval officers, and will always be needed.

FIRE IN A GROCERY.—At a late hour on Sunday night, a fire occurred in the two-story brick building, No. 147 Delancey-street, owned by JAMES SULLIVAN, and occupied by SCHNEIDER & STABB as a grocery store. The damage to the stock and fixtures was about $1,200, fully insured in the New-Amsterdam Insurance Company.

FIRE AT THE BROADWAY BANK BUILDING.—The roof of the Broadway Bank building, situated at the corner of Broadway and Park-place, took fire yesterday afternoon from some unknown cause. Damage, $300; insured.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

BROOKLYN COMMON COUNCIL—THE DRAFT—$150,000 APPROPRIATED FOR BOUNTIES—THE RESIGNATION OF ALDERMAN WOOD, &c., &c.—The Brooklyn Board of Aldermen held a regular meeting last night—Alderman STRONG in the Chair. Barely a quorum was present, and very little routine business was transacted.

Alderman WALLACE presented the resignation of Col. ALFRED M. WOOD, as Alderman of the First Ward, which was accepted, and the following resolutions by Alderman FISHER, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Board do hereby tender to ALFRED M. WOOD their sincere acknowledgments of the uniform dignity and courtesy which have marked his official intercourse with the Board as its President.

Resolved, That this Board recognize and appreciate the honor which its late President has conferred on this Board by his patriotic efforts and sacrifices, and that their best wishes will follow him in his new sphere of labor.

Alderman WALLACE submitted the following preamble and resolutions in relation to the enlistment of volunteers:

Whereas, The Governor has definitely fixed the 10th day of November next for a draft in this State to fill up our quota of troops ordered by the President; and,

Whereas, This city is understood to be short about one thousand nine months' men, which it is extremely desirable to make up by volunteers; therefore,

Resolved, That the Mayor, Comptroller and Treasurer are hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the city $100,000 (or so much thereof as may be deemed necessary), for the purpose of paying a bounty to men who may enlist to make up the aforesaid deficiency, and issue certificates of indebtedness therefor, bearing interest, to be paid when money shall be in the Treasury applicable to that purpose.

Resolved, That the Board of Contracts be authorized to pay from the fund thus created, the sum of $100 to each Brooklyn man who shall enlist as a private and be mustered into the service of the United States on or before the 10th of November next, in any regiment organized under authority of the State of New-York.

Alderman WALLACE, in supporting the resolutions, stated that the County now gave a bounty of $40, and that the Wards would raise sufficient to insure to each recruit the sum of $200, if the sum asked for from the city would now be appropriated.
